SPLIT DEVELOPS FATEFUL CRISIS FOR ROOSEVELT

Economic, Political Future at Stake.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt is facing tonight what bids fair to be the greatest crisis of his public career. The crisis is economic and political.

With recovery thwarted by New Deal policies, by the implied admission of the administration itself, and with his own party shot through with revolt against "planned economy," "recovery by spending," and other New Deal ideologies the course the President pursues in the next fortnight will be fraught with incalculable consequences.

Await President's Move.

The paramount question in Washington tonight is whether the President will get behind a program to repeal and revise New Deal legislation and otherwise modify Roosevelt policies responsible for deterring investment and expansion of business. If he does he will give business an enormous impetus. If he does not business will continue dependent for improvement on the artificial pump priming of deficit spending.

If the President embraces a program of thoroughgoing business appeasement he will go far toward healing the breach in the Democratic party. He will gain the approbation of the conservative wing of the party headed by Vice President Garner and Senators Pat Harrison [Miss.], Carter Glass [Va.], and Harry F. Byrd [Va.], and will pave the way for a united Democratic bid for retention of the presidency in 1940.

Political Fate at Stake.

If he does not he will alienate the conservative Democrats still further and lessen still more the chances of Democratic victory next year. That is the political aspect of the dilemma the President confronts.

Senator Harrison enunciated the position of the conservatives last week with the declaration that national bankruptcy can be avoided only by reduction of expenditures and reduction of business taxes. He appealed for a conference of executive and legislative leaders of the government to plan radical retrenchment. Having laid down these terms of peace with the administration the conservative Democrats took the position tonight that the next move is up to the President.

At the close of the day, however, there had been no sign of the President accepting the suggestion to convene a conference of administration heads and congress leaders on a program of radical cut in expenses.

Conference Set Today.

Presumably, however, this question will enter into the President's regular weekly conference tomorrow morning with the house and senate leaders. The conservatives will be represented by Vice President Garner.

Senator Harrison's suggestion of a conference of Democratic leaders on retrenchment was in reality an acceptance of the President's challenge to any one to show where and how expenditures can be curtailed. His position on that question was demonstrated when he signed the bill cutting 150 million dollars from relief appropriation and at the same time called on congress to restore the 150 million.

Unless he recedes from the contention that expenditures cannot be curtailed neither business appeasement nor Democratic party appeasement will be promoted, according to the conservatives.

Conservatives Are Strengthened.

The position of the conservatives has been immensely strengthened by the implied admissions by the President and other members of the administration that the radical legislation and administrative policies of the New Deal have stifled recovery.

These confessions of error were hailed by the conservative Democrats as manifestations of the New Deal indicting itself.

The President's retreat followed a recent cabinet meeting in which nearly all the members present expressed the opinion that the New Deal has failed to achieve recovery without which Democratic success in 1940 is a vain hope. It was in this meeting that Mr. Garner is reported to have blurted out: "The trouble is, Mr. President, that the country has lost confidence in you."

TWO CUSTOMERS TOSS COIN; LOSER HOLDS UP STORE

Grover Henry, manager of a drug store at 678 North Clark street, yesterday watched two men consume their coffee and rolls. Then the customers tossed a coin. One of them walked out. The other approached Henry.

"Guess you must have lost and have to pay the bill," laughed Henry.

"Guess again, buddy," said the stranger, thrusting one hand in his pocket. "You lose." Henry gave up $50.

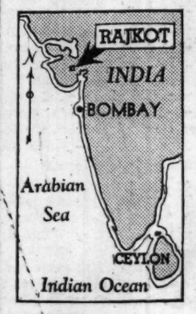
GANDHI GROWS WEAKER; SENDS WIFE TO PRISON

Closes Third Day of Hunger Strike.

RAJKOT, India, March 5.—(AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi ordered his wife back to prison today although he was weakening rapidly as he closed the third day of his "fast unto death" to win a voice in the government for the people of the tiny state of Rajkot.

The nationalist leader's move was a new act of defiance against the native ruler of Rajkot, Thakore Saheb Shri Dharmendrasinhji, who had freed Mrs. Gandhi from jail but still refused Gandhi's demands for constitutional reform in behalf of his Indian adherents.



Arrow indicates where Gandhi is fasting.

Millions throughout India prayed that the hunger strike would not endanger the life of the bald little leader, who entered the fast knowing that his vitality was low. His medical advisers were deeply concerned.

Loses Two Pounds.

The feeble Gandhi, who is 69 years old, already has lost two pounds. His legs were swelling, his pulse had quickened, and his blood pressure had risen from 168 to 180.

A medical bulletin said he had been restless Saturday night. The rustic cot on which he had lain outside his hut had to be placed on the veranda, screened from the hot Indian sun and from thousands who were flocking to his moral support.

The reunion between the shriveled ascetic leader and his wife was a dramatic moment. Kasturibhai Gandhi, who is known as a "faithful, silent" watcher over her husband, was arrested Feb. 3 when she arrived in Rajkot to start a civil disobedience campaign.

Told to Be with Gandhi.

She told her husband the Thakore Saheb had told her:

"You should be with Gandhi all the time he is in Rajkot."

And that she had replied:

"Since you ask me, I will go and inquire of Gandhi what he would have me do."

Gandhi's verdict was that she should rejoin others still imprisoned for participation in the civil disobedience campaign.

Viceroy May Intervene.

The possibility of intervention by the marquess of Linlithgow, King George VI.'s viceroy of India, was foreseen following reports from New Delhi that he had decided to cut short a tour of the Rajputana states on which he left a week ago.

The news aroused much interest in political circles in view of the scores of appeals from Congress [Indian nationalist] party organizations urging Lord Linlithgow to intervene to end Gandhi's fast.

The appeals grew steadily more insistent after the health minister of the Bombay presidency examined Gandhi and said, "This time the fast will not last many days." The minister flew here yesterday and then returned to Bombay, 700 miles southeast of Rajkot.

Gandhi's Sixth Fast.

This was Gandhi's sixth hunger strike to win government concessions for his millions of Indian followers and he still was cheerful enough to joke although he had taken no nourishment since he sipped a cup of hot goat's milk at noon Friday.

This morning he intoned his prayers in bed and had the whole Bhagavat Geeta—the song of Krishna, one of the most widely worshiped Hindu deities—recited to him in chorus by Asramites, disciples who live with him. He spent the afternoon in silent meditation.

Thirty Dead in India Riots.

BENARES, India, March 5.—(AP)—British troops patrolling the streets of this Hindu holy city today fired into the ranks of rioting Moslems and Hindus as casualties from week-end disorders were estimated unofficially at 30 dead and 100 injured.

The outbreaks began here and in several other Indian cities Friday when Hindus clashed with Moslems celebrating the sacred Mohurrum feast day.

FRENCH NAVY OFFICER, CONFESSED SPY, DIES BEFORE FIRING SQUAD

TOULON, France, March 6 [Monday].—(AP)—For having sold naval secrets to a foreign power, a French naval officer died at dawn today before a firing squad composed of volunteers from the fleet.

Ensign Marc Aubert, 25 years old, who had lived in terror during the weeks since he confessed his treason and was sentenced, died with his head high. His last words were:

Aubert confessed he sold information about French fleet movements and naval construction data to a foreign power which was not identified publicly. He used his sweetheart, Marie Morel, as a blind for the correspondence in which he transmitted the secrets.

Under a three year sentence as an accomplice, the ensign's sweetheart spent the night in the women's prison, unaware that he was to die at dawn.

KITTEN, UP TREE FOR THREE DAYS, SPURNS RESCUE

Residents in the vicinity of 53d street and University avenue wondered last night how to induce a kitten down from a tree, where it has been for three days. The kitten, dark gray with white paws, was treed Friday by a dog.

Since then the kitten has refused to budge from its perch about thirty feet above the ground. Yesterday Herbert Carnes, an agent of the anti-cruelty society, tried to catch the kitten with a noose on the end of a pole, but the kitten climbed out of reach.

Hickory, Dickery Dock! Car Mechanic Gets Shock

Kansas City, Mo., March 5.—(AP)—Harold Harrison, mail collector, got the laugh for several days after he crashed his truck into a pole. His flimsy excuse was that a mouse had run up his pants leg. Last night a mechanic lifted the seat cushion to change the battery in Harrison's truck and there it was—a mouse nest in the padding.

Wants to Pay for Wagon He Had Built in 1894

Gibon, Neb., March 5.—[Special.]—In 1894 Blacksmith August Tilgner made a wagon for a teamster. Times were hard and the teamster moved to California before he could pay for it. Tilgner forgot all about it until the other day he received a letter asking for a statement. Tilgner mailed a bill for: One wagon, $35.

Chicago Isn't Windy City; 23 Others Beat It!

Chicago weather, a survey showed yesterday, isn't the kind that goes to extremes. It's reasonable about the whole thing. Winds sweep some cities right off the map; the sun bakes others, and still others get too many cold snaps. But Chicago? Why—

Take the wind. Chicago isn't the Windy City at all. There are twenty-three others, on a list of thirty-five cities, that had more windy days in 1938. Buffalo led with 108; Chicago had only three! A day is considered windy if the wind velocity reaches thirty-two miles an hour.

Librarian Has All Answers.

Frederick Rex, librarian of the municipal library in the city hall, made the comparison of climate statistics. He found all the answers for folks who complain about the weather. Consider the average squawk:

1. It's too cold. Chicago had 104 days when the temperature was at freezing or below, putting it seventh on the list. Santa Fe, N. M., led with 146. Five cities reported none.

2. It's too hot. Chicago, with a high mark of 95 degrees, tied for eighth place with Los Angeles, Philadelphia, Richmond, and Minneapolis. Kansas City's 103 degrees was tops.

Chicago had six days when the mercury climbed to 90 or above. That made it 21st on the list. Houston, Tex., sweltered with 74 for first place. And in average temperature, Chicago was 27th with 52.2 degrees. Miami was high with 75.5 and Minneapolis low with 47.

3. Too much rain or snow. Not at all. Chicago had 34.81 inches of precipitation during 1938 and ranked 20th. Boston was wettest with 50.5 inches. New York had 46.4. At the bottom was San Diego, Cal., with a dusty 13.1 inches.

Clouds Have Silver Linings.

Mr. Rex also went into the matter of clear and cloudy days, and days with dense fog. Chicago and Washington, D. C., had 112 clear days and shared 11th place. Los Angeles had the most, 197; Detroit the fewest, 68. The order was reversed for cloudy days, with Detroit's 184 in first place, and Los Angeles last with 62. Chicago was tied with Boston for 7th place with 163 cloudy days.

Santa Fe had no dense fog, while Boston topped the list with 37 days of it and Pittsburgh was close with 35. Chicago had only six. In per cent of possible sunshine, which takes into account all meteorological disturbances, Chicago enjoyed a rating of 60—placing it twelfth on the list.

SURVEY OF COLLEGE BUDGETS SHOWS IT'S MISS CO-ED WHO PAYS

Bloomington, Ind., March 5.—(AP)—Though Joe College of Indiana university pays the freight on dates, Betty Co-Ed spent, on an average, $50 more last school year than he did.

Mary M. Crawford, economics instructor, today said a survey she made showed the average woman student spent $663.29, while the average man spent $613.07. The biggest difference came in spending for clothing.

OPENS CAR DOOR AND FINDS MAN DEAD ON FLOOR

Intending to take his son, Irving, 9 years old, for a ride yesterday, Maurice Lieberman opened the door of his automobile, parked in front of their home at 4113 Kimball avenue. His son screamed. On the rear floor was the body of a man. He was dead.

Albany Park police identified the dead man as Philip Rittler, 20 years old, 210 North Pulaski road, who worked in a parking lot near his home. The Paradise theater is nearby. On Saturday night Lieberman went to the theater and left his car in the lot.

Rittler, according to his father, was in bad health. Police believe he sat down in the car to rest and was stricken. Lieberman drove home from the parking lot without seeing the young man's body on the floor. A coroner's physician said death resulted from natural causes.

50th Blood Transfusion Given to Iowa Boy, 5

Mount Vernon, Ia., March 5.—[Special.]—The fiftieth blood transfusion in a year was given to Junior Simpson, 5 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simpson here, in his fight against nephrosis. He has been given more than five gallons of blood, two of which have been supplied by his father. Over 500 cubic centimeters of lyphol serum also have been administered. The boy sleeps fourteen hours a day.

Claudette Colbert's Poodle Runs Away; Returns in Taxi

Hollywood, Cal., March 5.—(AP)—When Claudette Colbert's French poodle, Smokey, wandered away today, she notified C. D. Wooster, president of a taxicab company, of her loss. Earl Riggs, one of 750 drivers whom Wooster instructed to look out for the dog, found it two miles from Miss Colbert's Beverly Hills home. The driver received a $100 reward.

AERIAL BOMBING MUST AWAIT WAR TO PROVE WORTH

BY WAYNE THOMIS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—[Special.]—Until experiments are made and the results published, or until two of the world's major powers are pitted against each other in war there will be no settling the dispute over the effectiveness of aerial bombing that has been waged—in secret—for years between army air corps and naval officers.

Neither the army nor the navy will make public any reports concerning the accuracy or the power of bombardment by giant modern bombing planes fitted with the newest bomb sights and operated by trained crews. Air corps officers hint that bombers are tremendously powerful and extremely accurate, but not even members of the military affairs committees of congress know the facts.

Results are Withheld.

Despite the anxiety of the administration and of the air corps to have both the regular and special defense bills passed, no definite information on the vulnerability of battleships or cities to aerial bombs has been released. It is known that certain experiments have been conducted, but for one reason or another the results are withheld.

The navy, supported by certain army officers commanding ground troops, insist that the lessons drawn from wars in both Spain and China tend to debunk the bomber terror. Bombardment from the air, they say, never has caused the surrender of a single city, nor has it been the final factor in routing any army from a defensive position it has assumed.

Infantry, artillery, and particularly mechanized forces have taken the offensive in Spain each time a real drive has been made by either side. Particularly has this been true with the rebel forces. Moroccan storm troops or Italian black arrow assault troopers have led the attacks that really gained territory for Gen. Francisco Franco.

German and Italian Flyers.

Furthermore, navy officials say, rebel troops in Spain have had the aid of squadrons from the German and Italian air forces. These two nations, they point out, allegedly possess the best and largest air corps in Europe. If the German and Italian airmen do not win decisive victories, the navy asks, how can proponents of air power sustain their positions.

In Asia the Japanese ground forces are the units that seize and hold territory gained. Despite an increasing use of aerial bombardment by the Japanese, the navy says, no single Chinese city has been reduced to surrender by bombs alone. And the Chinese, say the opponents of air power, are defenseless against aerial bombardment and thus should easily be subdued.

Replying to such arguments, air corps leaders say that in Spain the full strength of air power never was turned against loyalist cities. Gen. Franco, they say, wished to preserve Madrid and Barcelona from complete destruction. Consequently only

NEGRIN OUSTED; WAR WILL GO ON, NEW CHIEF SAYS

Gen. Casado Heads Defense Council.

Julian Besteiro.

It was announced that Negrin had been prevented from leaving Spain. This was interpreted by some to mean that he was under arrest.

The chief member of the council besides Gen. Casado is Julian Besteiro, a Socialist who was speaker of the cortes [parliament] until 1933. Formerly he was a professor of logic and dean of the faculty of philosophy at Madrid university. There are four other members of the defense council.

Broadcast Manifesto.

"Workers, Spaniards, anti-Fascist people!" the manifesto began.

"The moment has come for you to know the truth. The situation in which we find ourselves does not permit us to wait any longer. The government of Negrin has given proof of its evident incapacity.

"We ask you then to do your full duty. We cannot suffer several privileged individuals to prepare peacefully to flee and gain an easy exile abroad.

"Negrin has said: 'Either we save ourselves altogether or we will perish together.' Let it be so! We will resist to the end of our force!

"Spaniards, long live Spain!"

Hope for "Honorable Peace."

In a radio broadcast Gen. Casado declared:

"We stand or fall together. We will fight to the death or have an honorable peace."

He was followed by Besteiro, who said:

"Negrin has been acting unconstitutionally and has been infringing upon the constitution, and the truth must be told. After the fall of Catalonia the Negrin cabinet kept on making promises, but the fact is the Negrin cabinet lacks all authority, particularly since the resignation of the president. [President Manuel Azana resigned on Feb. 28 and is a refugee in France.]

"The people well know that under the constitution a presidential election must be convoked eight days after a presidential resignation. Since the government is unable to hold such a presidential election, Negrin deliberately infringed on the constitution. Negrin is acting in an absolutely illegal manner and does not deserve the respect of Spanish republicans."

Appointment Illegal.

Besteiro said the naming by the cabinet of Diego Martinez Barrio, president of the cortes, as provisional president, was an infringement of the constitution. He referred to Negrin and his ministers as a "wandering cabinet."

"The gravity of the moment forces us to no longer obey that handful of men in whom no one has any more confidence," he said.

Besteiro denounced Negrin for "hoping for a world conflict so that he and his cabinet could save their faces. In other words, he wanted more blood. He cared nothing for the loss of lives."

Besides Gen. Casado and Besteiro, the four other members of the defense council are Miguel San Andres of the Left Republican party which formerly was headed by Azana; Eduardo Val, Socialist; Manuel Gonzalez Marin, CNT, or anarchist-syndicalist; and Wenceslao Carillo, UGT, or Socialist Workers' union.

Gen. Casado was promoted from the rank of colonel only nine days ago.

Announcement of the new government was expected to bring heavy hostilities from Gen. Franco's troops almost immediately, as heavy concentrations near Madrid and Valencia have been reported.

Gen. Jose Miaja, commander in chief of air, sea, and land forces in central Spain, was en route to Madrid to support the new régime, Gen. Casado announced.

Naval Revolt Quelled.

The announcement of the new council followed a revolt at Cartagena, republican naval base, which Negrin's government announced earlier had been quelled.

The announcement of the unsuccessful revolt said the important naval base "is now entirely in the hands of the government." It said the revolt took place this morning.

[The nationalist radio station at Burgos declared "Cartagena is surrendering herself to us and the Red fleet has gone abroad." However, British reports from Gibraltar said the fleet was understood to have remained at Cartagena after the uprising. The British reports said the revolters were discovered at the Cartagena radio station. It was said they were arrested immediately and many were shot.]

Rebel Elements in Fleet.

The announcement made here by the press and propaganda department said the revolt was engineered "by some rebel elements within the military forces at Cartagena."

"Both the republican fleet as well as troops were rushed to Cartagena," the announcement said. "Summary court martial has been arranged so that those responsible will be dealt with instantly and with the maximum vigor."

When the nationalist sympathizers seized the radio station they broadcast an appeal for help to sustain the revolt. The nationalists' radio station at Cadiz advised them to continue resistance pending the arrival of reënforcements. Gen. Franco was reported to have ordered a number of warships to Cartagena from Barcelona.

The revolters released a number of political prisoners in Cartagena and about noon a radio speaker claimed the uprising was succeeding. He designated several places for civilians, soldiers, and sailors to gather. Next came the message that an ultimatum had been sent the republican naval squadron demanding its surrender within fifteen minutes under threat of bombardment.

Escape to Algeria.

Shortly after noon the Cartagena radio station went off the air. At 4:50 p. m. it resumed operation with the announcement that the nationalist revolt had been suppressed.

[Four Spanish planes landed at Oran, in the French colony of Algeria, with thirty Spanish officers who were involved in the Cartagena revolt. They were disarmed and placed under guard by French military authorities.]

The government fleet is believed to consist of about thirty-five ships, including three cruisers, thirteen destroyers, seven submarines, five torpedo boats, and two gunboats.

SAYS BRITISH PLOT WAR

ROME, March 5.—(AP)—A flat charge that the great democracies were preparing to start a war shortly to destroy the totalitarian states was made today by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor who often reflects Premier Mussolini's thoughts.

"Everything proves that the great democracies are moving speedily toward war," he wrote in La Voce d'Italia.

Asserting the democracies were pouring "tens of milliards" [billions] into armaments, Gayda said "every investment demands a profit, especially in capitalistic régimes which are called democratic. The profit of milliards spent for cannon is offensive war."

Predicts British "Invasion."

He said that, considering the "now evident aim of the united democracies to unloose an offensive shortly," Italy could only provide herself with new armaments as she recently announced she was doing.

Great Britain's huge expenditure for her army, Gayda continued, "announces the firm intention of England to transfer herself to the continent with land forces."

He said events had confirmed his previously expressed suspicions that Prime Minister Chamberlain's formula of "peace by negotiation" rapidly was changing to one of "peace with intimidation."

"One may be certain," he continued, "that within a few months, when war warehouses are filled, the British tune will change and resound with notes less in harmony with the melodious flute of peace."

The editor said the democracies first based their arms programs on the alleged menace of the totalitarian states.

But now, he asserted, with the confidence born of their new armed strength, they are preparing to greet demands of justice and equality, which Italy or Germany might make, as "an insupportable surprise."

Negrin Overthrown

Arrows locate (1) Madrid, where the army leader, Gen. Casado, ousted Premier Negrin and seized control, and (2) the Cartagena naval base, where a revolt of nationalist sympathizers was suppressed.

FRENCH AFRICAN OFFICIALS HOLD DEFENSE PARLEY

TUNIS, Tunisia, March 5.—(AP)—The resident generals of French ruled Tunisia and Morocco conferred behind closed doors here today with six generals and an admiral on French North African defense.

Gen. August Nogues, resident-general of Morocco and coördinator of French African forces, called the conference shortly after his arrival for an inspection of southern Tunisian fortifications facing Italian Libya. He had conferred this morning with George Le Beau, governor general of Algeria.

Franco's Agents Arrest 10 for Slaying Sympathizers

BARCELONA, March 5.—(AP)—Nationalist [Franco] intelligence agents today seized ten persons, including two women, on charges of subversive activities. They were accused of complicity in the slaying of Nationalist sympathizers before Gen. Franco's forces captured Barcelona on Jan. 26.

Blames Foreign Countries for Nation's Plight.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LEIPZIG, Germany, March 5.—The Nazi government is barely "able to provide the most necessary foodstuffs for the German people," Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Joseph Goebbels admitted today in opening the Leipzig spring fair.

He asserted that "this is due entirely to the fact that the German people did not get the share due them in the distribution of the treasures of this world."

"We belong to the have-nots," he declared, but added that "Germany must live and will live."

Sees Thrift as Way Out.

"A nation of eighty millions in the heart of Europe cannot be simply stricken off the list of other nations," Goebbels said. "Therefore, all international barriers against the healthy exchange of goods with Germany are not merely foolish but politically criminal."

He spoke of the "iron determination" with which Germany would make up for the deficiencies through thrift and ingenuity, and asked: "What else shall we Germans do if we wish to live?"

"We have no colonies to supply our raw material needs," the propaganda minister said. "We have not enough space to assure the food supplies of our people. Other countries try to cut away our export trade. Will they give Germany the good advice to starve in honor? And do they seriously believe that this nation will rest content that its spaces for life and trade are too small to provide its daily bread?"

Scorns British Laughs.

Replying to British criticisms of German economic measures, Goebbels declared the English "would do well not to laugh scornfully" at Germany's plight. They should "warmly welcome German efforts to reduce" the disproportion of goods between the two countries, he said.

"These efforts," he added, "tend to reduce and abolish the tension in Europe."

Small groups of industrialists and tradesmen who met following Goebbels' speech privately said that the shortages from which Germany is suffering could be relieved if part of the huge sums spent on armaments and propaganda were used for normal trade requirements.

ITALIANS SHOUT GREETINGS TO GOERING ON VISIT

SAN REMO, Italy, March 5.—(AP)—Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering, Germany's No. 2 Nazi, was welcomed to Italy today with shouts of "Heil Hitler!" and "Heil Goering!" as he and Frau Goering arrived for the announced intention of vacationing on the Italian Riviera.

Diplomats, however, attributed far greater significance to the visit of Reichsfuehrer Hitler's chief aid. It was understood that after a short rest Goering would go to Rome and then to Libya to inspect fortifications in that Italian territory of North Africa.

Diplomats link Goering's visit particularly with Fascist territorial demands on France, which in their opinion, Premier Mussolini almost certainly will make specific soon.

Called 'Wildcat'

KATHARINE HEPBURN.

Wilmington, Del., March 5.—[Special.]—Trooper John J. Shannon of the Delaware state police stopped a car today because he thought a little girl was driving it. "But I soon found out," he said, "that she was a regular little wildcat. She had no driver's card, so I had to take her in." The "regular little wildcat" turned out to be Katharine Hepburn. The actress told Magistrate Alfred J. P. Seitz that she had left her operator's license in Hollywood. She posted $13.50 and was permitted to drive on to Baltimore.

FIND 10 VICTIMS OF AIR CRASH TO BE NAZI OFFICERS

NICE, France, March 5.—(AP)—French officials investigating the wreckage of a German D-Alus plane which crashed in a fortified region near the Italian frontier Feb. 25 said today the ten victims aboard were all German air force officers.

The plane wreckage and the ten charred bodies were found yesterday by a patrol of French Alpine troops. French officials said metal bars and buttons showed that all, including the pilot, were officers of the regular Nazi air force.

In a metal box in the plane's cabin the officials found documents concerning aid for the Committee of Jewish Youth. The documents were written in Spanish and appeared to have come from Barcelona. The plane was reported to have passed over Toulouse, far off its course, on the day it crashed.

DIES IN HOME OF HEART ATTACK.

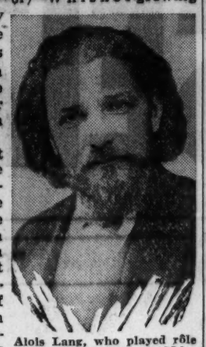
OBERAMMERGAU STARTS RAISING WHISKERS AGAIN

OBERAMMERGAU, Germany, March 5.—(AP)—Whisker-growing began today on a large scale in this Bavarian village famed for its Passion Play.



Alois Lang, who played rôle of Christ in 1930 and 1934.

Almost every male above adolescent age laid aside his razor in preparation for next year's resumption of the Passion Play performances after an interval of six years.

Whether a villager expects to be chosen for one of the major rôles or not, he lets his beard and his hair grow.

Whiskers Cultivated Early.

This is because, besides those who will take the parts of Christ, the Apostles, and other rôles, many "supers" are needed for mass scenes and tradition demands that the male "supers" be bewhiskered.

Whiskers are cultivated early because it is customary for a curtain-raiser to the Passion Play to be given from June to September during the year preceding the regular play.

It is called "The Pestilence of 1633" and shows how the villagers of Oberammergau in 1633 vowed to perform the Passion Play every ten years if only God would take from them the scourge of pestilence then raging.

First Performance in 1634.

The first performance of the Passion Play, in which the villagers enact the passion and death of Christ, was given in 1634 after the cessation of the scourge of the Black Death.

It was repeated every ten years until 1674, after which the dates were changed so as to fall on decimal years. The next performance thus is scheduled for 1940.

A special presentation of the play occurred in 1934 to mark the 300th anniversary of the initial performance. Alois Lang portrayed the rôle of Christ in 1930 and 1934.

RUSSIA 'ADMITS' ITS PEACE TIME ARMY HAS 1,800,000 MEN

MOSCOW, March 5.—(AP)—Pravda, communist party organ, today published German figures giving the peace time strength of the soviet Russian army as 1,800,000 men.

The figures were taken from a German military magazine, but the fact that they were published here without comment indicated that the soviet government was not unwilling to have Russian and foreign readers take them seriously.

The same tabulation also showed an increase in soviet air strength from 6,000 to 9,000 fighting planes between 1936 and 1938. It gave no naval figures but credited the soviet union with 30,000 light machine guns, 23,000 heavy machine guns, 1,600 pieces of heavy artillery, and between 6,000 and 10,000 tanks.

LEAPS TO DEATH AFTER PARTY AS HUSBAND SLEEPS

Find Body of Wedding Guest in Areaway.

A pretty young wife, attending a wedding party in a south side hotel, became more and more depressed early yesterday as the gayety of the other guests increased. She and her husband went to their room. She announced she was going to her mother's home, packed a bag, and walked out.

Nearly five hours later her body was found in a cindered areaway of the hotel. Her skull had been fractured in a plunge from a fourth floor bathroom window. Her husband, unaware of the tragedy, was asleep.

The wife was Mrs. Frances Shurley, 26 years old. She and her husband, Ralph, a window trimmer, lived on the fourth floor of the Jackson Park Plaza hotel at 1540 East 65th place. Thirty persons drank and danced at the wedding party, held in the hotel dining room.

Lieut. Thomas Geary of the Woodlawn police and Walter J. McDermott, deputy coroner, found the bathroom from which Mrs. Shurley had fallen. They broke down the door, which was bolted on the inside. Her purse and hat were on the window sill, her suitcase on the floor.

Pondered Jump for Hours.

They were unable to determine the time of Mrs. Shurley's death. She apparently had waited for hours before making her decision. William Ellis, a colored watchman, was walking a guest's dog at 7 a. m. He said he saw no body in the areaway as he passed, but could not be sure because of the shadows. Mrs. Shurley's body was found by a milkman at 8 a. m.

An enigmatic note, written by Mrs. Shurley [no one knows when] was found on the back of a framed photograph of herself by coroner's investigators. It read:

"Ralph Darling—You know that I love you. And I do hope the happiest days of our past will be the saddest of the future. It can't be much longer, dear."

Love Note Shows Editing.

This much was written in blue ink. Two lines in pencil followed: "Or was I wrong?" and "What do you think?"

As first written it had read "saddest days of our past will be the happiest of the future." The words "saddest" and "happiest" had later been transposed.

The party which the couple had attended was in celebration of the marriage of two hotel employés, Lorraine Roberts, 21, a waitress, and Henry Birvick, 24, an elevator operator.

"I didn't want to go to the party," Shurley told Lieut. Geary. "My wife always became despondent after drinking. She had threatened to take her life several times. She said she would go to this party by herself if I didn't take her.

Kept from Opening Window.

"We had some beer and went up to the room about 2:30. She tried to open the window. Maybe she was going to jump then. I stopped her. She said 'All right, I'm going to mother' [Mrs. Mary Avery, 521 Elgin avenue, Forest Park].

"My wife packed and left at about 3:30. I went to bed. The next thing I knew the phone rang and they told me she was down there in the areaway."

The Shurleys had been married 2½ years. She was formerly a waitress and restaurant cashier. Shurley was not held. An inquest will be held today at 1506 East 67th street.

CHICAGO CZECHS CELEBRATE 85TH YEAR OF SOCIETY

Members of the Moravian Slovak club, dancing in colorful native costumes, headlined the program yesterday at the celebration of the 85th anniversary of the founding of the Czecho-Slovakian Society of America. The event was held in Sokol hall, 2345 South Kedzie avenue. A crowd of 800 saw the dances and heard a talk on the European political situation by Josef Martinek, who recently arrived from Czecho-Slovakia.

An exhibition of Czecho-Slovakian arts and crafts was opened with a tea and musical yesterday afternoon in the Evanston Art center. Among those taking part in the program was Miss Milena Holy, daughter of Antonin Holy, Czech counsul in Chicago.

FIND STONE AGE LADY'S PASTIME; IT'S FANCY WORK

The prehistoric woman spent her spare time crocheting and embroidering, evidence obtained by anthropologists shows. In the current issue of the Field Museum News, Dr. Henry Field, curator of physical anthropology, calls attention to an exhibition of specimens of the world's oldest textiles, spindle whorls, and loom weights in the museum's Hall of the Stone Age.

CHICAGO MODELS TOSS TRESSES AT SHORT HAIR EDICT

BY MARCIA WINN.

Feminine hair ukase: Short, but not shingled. Swirled and curled. A maximum of three inches in length all over the head.

That, style creators of the Midwest Beauty Trade show insist, is the coming style. But yesterday as they prepared to open their sixteenth annual show at the Hotel Sherman, they found themselves confronted with a new problem, that of portraying the new style.

To the indignation of the style creators Chicago's professional models have expressed a firm unwillingness to have their hair cut. They like theirs long, touching the shoulders. They intend to keep it so.

A Model Crisis.

Yet the beauty trade show has to have models. Style creators cannot depict the beauty of short hair—the "little girl look," as they term it, "youthful, practical, and individual"—without a living model. Without, in fact, many living models.

"But try to find a good model who'll let you cut her long bob!" an official cried.

"All those heads with shaggy manes," she said in disgust. "They think that's Hollywood! I'm frantic. You should know what I went through to get even two to pose for pictures.

"Every models' bureau in town has been calling girls to get them to come in, but they can't. That little imp over there," pointing to a young girl with a mass of long auburn hair, "looks terrible—simply terrible—with that hair all over her face. But will she let us touch it? No!

Old Fashioned? O, No!

"I said to her: 'But you knew before you came down that you couldn't work unless we cut your hair!' and she said: 'Why, no.' I offered her $5 for two hours' work, to model before and after the new hair-do, but she just walked away."

"Most of them think it's to be the old-fashioned shingle," Miss Mari Floto, fashion coördinator, amended. "They can't understand that it isn't."

Mrs. Margaret Condos, president of the Chicago and Illinois Hairdressers' association, sponsor of the show, sighed. She said the girls just did not realize that the long bob is as "terrible" as last spring's dresses.

Thirty-one models finally were selected, after the city had been combed. Many of these already had short hair. But four, who had come down with the understanding that their tresses were to be shorn, lost courage at the last minute. Their eyes a trifle sad, but their hair still waving on their shoulders, they walked hurriedly away.

$600,000 VOTE DEAL WILL BE LAID BEFORE PENN GRAND JURORS

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., March 5.—[Special.]—District Attorney Leon Schwartz said that tomorrow he will request the Luzerne County court to order a grand jury investigation of an alleged $600,000 vote buying fraud operated in this county through the state department of highways. He said the alleged fraud involved about 3,500 persons.

The existence of such a fraud was charged several days ago by the Dauphin county grand jury in recommending indictments in its investigation of graft and corruption charges against the Democratic administration of former Gov. George Earle.

Schwartz charged that his own inquiry revealed that more than 1,200 men received pay from the highway department during the weeks preceding the November election, although they were employed in mines or other private establishments and did no work for the state.

AIR LINE SETS UP SCHOOL TO TRAIN ITS APPRENTICES

American Signs 60 Young Men for Courses.

For the last four years the air line industry has been plagued by a shortage in trained mechanics capable of repairing and maintaining modern airliners at the state of perfectly groomed efficiency required for regular air transportation service. American Airlines recently opened a campaign here to assure for itself an ample supply of men trained in its methods and maintenance policies.

The company signed contracts with sixty young men to pay them salaries while they attend a four year apprentice training school in the company's shops and at its various air stations. The apprentice course is the first of its kind to be established in the United States by any air transport company.

School's Aims Explained.

"The purpose of the school," said Ralph S. Damon, vice president of the air line in charge of operations, "is to train our own mechanics with an eye toward present and future needs. We plan to offer them a more rounded training program than could be obtained in outside schools. At the same time the program offers a source of supply for future supervisory personnel from the ranks of the company."

This school is patterned, to a degree, after the apprentice schools of Germany and England. Many companies, particularly airplane manufacturing companies in Germany, have established apprentice schools where young men learn the mechanics of airplanes and airplane engines in the most practical possible way—that of building and repairing them.

Manufacturers Adopt Plan.

Such schools have proved their worth so well that American plane manufacturers have in a few instances established similar institutions. American Airlines is the first aeronautical carrier to open a trade school, but several other major airline companies have been considering the opening of courses in conjunction with their repair and overhaul shops.

"The prerequisites for employment as an apprentice mechanic at our school," said Damon, "are, first of all, American citizenship, a high school diploma or its equivalent, passage of a physical examination, and attainment of legal working age. The maximum age limit is 25 years at date of enrollment."

Outside study and lectures in the course will require 144 hours annually. The rest of the course is divided into four divisions: Radio equipment maintenance and overhaul, instrument maintenance and overhaul, engine propeller and accessory overhaul, and general line maintenance.

Courses Are Thorough.

The courses are thorough. For example, the curriculum for general line maintenance is as follows: fourteen months on daily and major engine inspections, general aircraft repair, accessory and engineering changes, and propeller checks; eleven months on engine, propeller, and accessory overhauls; one month in the supply department; three months in the engine installation department; two months in the instrument overhaul department; and six months in the airplane overhaul department.

At the end of the courses the apprentice mechanics are eligible to take Civil Aeronautics authority examinations for any licenses necessary for the particular type of work in which they may have specialized.

Sixty apprentices now working with the company have been signed for the courses. No further applicants will be accepted for another eight or ten months. T. J. Healy, former supervisor of maintenance of American Airlines at Cleveland, will supervise the apprentice school.

The first apprentice to sign a contract with the company was Ross Jenkins, 19 years old, 1360 Greenleaf avenue, Chicago.

Begin Test of Airplanes for New Training Plan

Dayton, O., March 5.—(AP)—Eighteen private or light commercial airplanes were under test at Wright field today, the first step in the government's new plan for training college students to be pilots. A dozen or more manufacturers who submitted bids last Wednesday awaited the results which likely will not be known for six weeks. The ships were entered in competition for basic trainers of 225 horse power or less. These bids represented the first opportunity in years for makers of light commercial planes to enter government competition.

Whirlpool Bath

Irma Lusk demonstrates new device used in treating infantile paralysis. Dr. William Bishop of Chicago is supervising.

The "whirlpool bath," a device used in treating infantile paralysis sufferers, was exhibited yesterday at the Morrison hotel, where the Illinois Association of Chiropodists and Foot Specialists closed its thirty-first annual convention last night.

The effect of the bath is to give patients a "passive massage," ten minutes of which is equal to one half hour of brisk massage with the hands. It is also used for various types of foot ailments.

Other machines for curing foot ills shown were the bunion oscillator, which gets rid of bunions without surgery, and a super-ray electric machine. The latter device has three types of lamps—one for killing bacteria, another whose light approximates that of the sun and is used for healing sore muscles, and a third for stimulation of blood circulation.

U. S. ARMY PILOT IS KILLED; PLANE HITS BARN IN FOG

Detroit, Mich., March 5.—[Special.]—Lieut. N. A. Cowles, United States air corps reserve, crashed to his death last night on an Ontario farm, seventy-five miles northeast of Detroit. Lieut. Cowles was on his way back to Selfridge field from Boston when he became lost in a fog and his fuel ran out. He hit a barn, killing two horses and a cow.

Flying a $40,000 Seversky P-35 high speed single seater fighting plane, Lieut. Cowles left Boston at 3:30 p. m. with 200 gallons of gasoline, enough for nearly five hours of flying.

Jack Young, who lives near Parkhill, Ont., stepped out of his barn at 7:45 p. m. when he heard the plane coming toward his house. The ship missed the house by a few feet and hit the barn.

Young notified provincial police and a guard was posted over the wreckage. Two gun sights, secret United States army devices, could not be found in the wreckage. Cowles was 23 years old and a native of Tacoma.

EXPOSE GERMAN AERIAL BOMB AS MUCH OVERRATED

Washington, D. C., March 5.—(AP)—Military circles heard today that army ordnance experts had solved the secret of a German-made aerial bomb which caused frightful destruction in Spanish civil war raids on Barcelona.

The Army and Navy Journal reports that the bomb contained no liquid oxygen—as first believed—but was charged with ammonium nitrate mixed with powdered charcoal and powdered aluminum, inclosed in a light magnesium alloy shell.

The Journal said the discovery of the composition of the bomb led to official conclusions that it was overrated as a weapon. The bomb was said to be ineffective against shelters or trenches.

a few military targets, docks, warehouses, and power plants were bombed.

Japs Improve as Airmen.

And in China, according to the air corps, the Japanese air force has enabled a Japanese land army of not more than 400,000 men to defeat on every front the two million Chinese now under arms. Initially, the Japanese pilots were inexperienced and their technique was poor. As the war has progressed, however, they have become excellent airmen.

At this time the argument has been reduced to a dispute over the number of bombs required to sink a battleship. The navy admits that older types of battleships can be sunk with a single bomb, but denies that modern types, specially designed to withstand aerial bombardment, can be sunk without a disproportionate loss of aircraft and men.

The navy says that if enough bombs are used bombers can sink any vessel afloat. Its spokesmen hold, however, that anti-aircraft fire will make it so expensive for aerial attacking forces that the effort to sink a battleship with bombers would not be considered sound tactics.

Seek Test of Air Bombing.

Several congressmen today suggested to the army that a demonstration of bombardment power be given by the destruction of some structure that could be examined by the public. One proposal is that the army should loose a bombardment squadron to bomb the ruins of the Singer hotel near Palm Beach, Fla.

This is a huge skeleton structure set almost on the beach. It was planned as the largest hotel in Florida. The steel and concrete work was completed, but the deflation of the Florida real estate market caught it at this stage and left it stranded.

Crews were called off the job and the hotel never was finished. It stands today moss covered and a vision of bankruptcy. But the concrete and steel work would serve as a real test of the destructiveness of aerial bombs. The hotel stands alone miles away from other buildings so that possible damage to other structures would not prevent the experiment.

Would Welcome Experiments.

The air corps would welcome such experiments. And the air corps also would gladly participate in bombing practice that would match bombers against any of the older battleships that might be designated by the navy for destruction.

There have been no such experiments since 1923, when the late Gen. William Mitchell brought into the open the question of bombing effectiveness. His iconoclastic ideas and public utterances led to official action that ended with his resignation from the service in February, 1926. The fate of Mitchell has put a gag upon other officers.

Gen. Mitchell, however, gave a great demonstration of bombing power in September, 1921, and again in September, 1923, when a fleet of bombers commanded by him took off from Langley field, flew to sea, and quickly sank battleships that had been abandoned and towed to the bombing grounds to be destroyed.

Destroy German Battleship.

The first ship destroyed was the German battleship Ostfriesland. The navy had invited a large number of congressmen and senators to witness its sinking by a combination of navy forces. Small bombs from navy airplanes were dropped and the ship withstood these without difficulty.

At this point, however, Mitchell took command. His Martin biplane bombers carrying 600 and 1,100 pound bombs made one pass over the Ostfriesland. The first salvo broke the battleship's back, saddled its hull, and it sank within eleven seconds.

In 1923, with the condemned American battleships Virginia and Langley, Gen. Mitchell's squadrons gave a similarly effective demonstration. The story goes that the navy department had intervened through Washington and Mitchell had received orders not to bomb these boats, but that he disregarded the orders and sank them anyway.

Many Direct Hits on Warship.

Since then the navy has taken part in only one air corps bombing exercise. In 1937, the battleship Utah went to sea and cruised about attempting to avoid detection by three general headquarters air force flying fortress bombers. The bombers quickly found the battleship and dropped water filled bombs upon her.

There were so many direct hits and water was splashed on so many vital points of the Utah that the navy refused to allow the official report of the exercise to be published, according to information here.

In fact, the air corps reports are that the navy department protested strongly when the army bombed the outline of a battleship on Muroc dry lake in California during the air exercises in 1936. There was another protest after the army built a raft to the outline of a battleship and moored it in the Great Salt lake.

A March field bombing squadron at Glendale, Cal., took off, flew 600 miles to the target and destroyed it with the first salvo of bombs. The navy's protest, it is said, was based upon the fact that the raft had the shape of a battleship.

Tests at the Aberdeen proving ground and elsewhere have shown that the strongest concrete bridges and culverts are smashed to bits by 600 and 1,100 pound bombs. Special targets of reinforced concrete some four feet thick are smashed by 2,000 pound bombs. The army supposedly has dropped bombs as large as 4,000 pounds, but these are considered too large for tactical uses.

Air corps officers will tell you confidentially that a salvo of 2,000 pound bombs, placed on and around any battleship in the world will sink it. They cannot prove their contention nor can the navy prove its story that battleships can make such bombing "not worth the effort" until some more experiments are conducted.

To those who go to Paris for their clothes, the name of Marjorie Dunton has long been tops. Only now has she been willing to design for stores and even now only for such a store as Chas. A. Stevens. Her success in private designing has been due to her flair for giving to wearable things an originality of line and detail that stamps her clothes as exceptionally smart and in thorough good taste, without any of that painful effort to be different one finds sometimes in Paris clothes.

You'll love the unusual pants-button trim and the different skirt on the costume dress (left); the squared sleeve and shoulder line, and the soft fulness of the waistline on the dress (above). The new knuckle length Chunkie coat swings becomingly, boasts new patch-upon-patch pockets and an unexpected 'kerchief pocket on its sleeve. And the two piece suit with jacket of imported Haiglan Tweed has a definitely new cut, slightly longer, and so slimming through the midriff; its skirt too is slim, starting as pockets at the top—it breaks into fulness with straight-hanging front box pleats. CHURCH LEADERS HAIL ADVANCE OF PROTESTANTISM

1939 to Mark Greatest Gains in Century.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Chicago churchmen said yesterday that 1939 will be known as the year in which American Protestantism took the greatest forward stride in a century. A decade ago prophets said Protestantism was falling apart. But progress has been so rapid that many conservative church leaders have been astounded.

Nine outstanding developments are

1. Sharp increases have been made in church membership and in attendance.
2. Liquidation of huge debts of local churches incurred from 1900 to 1929. Credit of national bodies is sound.
3. Haziness of doctrinal standards is being abolished. Churches adhering to traditional Protestant beliefs, such as the deity of Christ and the divine calling of the church, are the ones now making the greatest progress. Others report declining interest.
4. A shortage of clergy exists as a result of expansion and higher educational and other ministerial standards.
5. Interest and participation of laymen in the affairs of local and national churches has increased.
6. Historical rifts between various Protestant denominations have been healed.
7. Families of churches have either reunited or are preparing to reunite. Three Methodist bodies will merge in April in Kansas City, Mo. Lutheran groups are moving toward union. An Evangelical-Reformed merger has been completed.
8. Interchurch coöperation has reached a new high through the World Council of Churches, Federal Council of Churches, and national councils of church boards.
9. Concordats looking toward church unity are being discussed with increasing favor, as is illustrated by the Episcopal-Presbyterian concordat and those between various Lutheran groups.

The Rev. Mike Elliott, editor of the Baptist Minister, reported for the twenty-one national groups of Baptists, with their 9,500,000 members and 40,000 churches. The membership growth of more than 150,000 for all Baptist churches in 1937 will be exceeded probably by more than 50,000 when all returns are in for 1939, the Rev. Mr. Elliott said.

Leaders to Meet in Chicago.

"For the first time in Baptist history, the presidents of the twenty-one national Baptist conventions will meet in a conference May 22 in Chicago," he said. "The conference was called by the Baptist Minister, and every president has accepted its invitation. A coöperative evangelistic campaign lasting through 1940 will be the chief conference topic."

The Rev. Mr. Elliott said that the new impetus behind American and world Protestantism virtually has assured a registration of 55,000 Baptists from throughout the world in Atlanta in July when the World Baptist alliance meets there. In the June meeting of the Northern Baptist convention in Los Angeles, many foreign speaking Baptist conventions will affiliate with the Northern convention.

Chicago Methodists will have leading rôles in the coming unification of three national Methodist groups in April in Kansas City. The Rev. Dr. Miron A. Morrill of the church's board of education, described the merger as one that will form a national church with 7,893,402 members and 27,459 ministers.

Church to Have 45,551 Buildings.

"The new church will have 45,551 church buildings valued at 616 million dollars and 139 educational institutions with net resources of nearly 300 million dollars," said Dr. Morrill. "The Rev. Dr. Fred D. Stone, 740 Rush street, will be a principal factor in the unification plans as one of the publishing agents of Methodism. When publishing interests are merged the capital assets of the publishing house will be in excess of 8 million dollars."

The Rev. Dr. Aubrey S. Moore, 77 West Washington street, is chairman of a national committee of fifteen on the April unity conference. Dr. Morrill is chairman of the public relations committee for the parley. As an evidence of national resurgence of Methodism, Dr. Morrill said that attendance at Methodist Sunday schools has increased more than 30,000 pupils during the last nine months.

More than 3,000 Methodist ministers and lay leaders of churches of Chicago will meet Bishop Ernest Lynn Waldorf next Sunday in the Stevens hotel to discuss plans for Methodist unification.

"Any one who now has the least doubt about Protestant progress or of the future of American churches should look in at the Stevens hotel next Sunday afternoon," said Bishop Waldorf last night.

Reports of Lutheran groups compared with a year ago are scarcely short of sensational. For example, fifty-five of 185 congregations of Missouri synod Lutherans exceeded their annual mission quotas.

The Rev. Adelbert R. Kretzmann of St. Luke Lutheran church, Belmont and Greenview avenues, said that new interest of laymen in church work has been shown by their support and renewal of the Lutheran hour, a nation-wide broadcast, at an annual cost of $100,000. He spoke especially of vast increases in subscribers for Lutheran publications, with all reaching new highs of circulation this year.

"Ten thousand new members of the Missouri synod are being prepared in the immediate Chicago area for confirmation on Palm and Pentecost Sundays," said the Rev. Mr. Kretzmann. "Church attendances have increased between 25 and 30 per cent in the Chicago area. In rural sections, where populations often show declines, reports show that church attendance is up from 7 and 9 per cent."

New Ministers to Be Sent Out.

The Rev. Mr. Kretzmann explained that the centennial of Saxon immigration this year will be observed by sending 300 new and well trained ministers into new communities to organize churches. Funds for this observance have been accumulated, he said, from gifts from every baptized member of the church. These members are organized into centennial units of 100 each.

This observance is something like the Sesquicentennial observance of the Presbyterian church in America. Presbyterians of the country are raising a fund of at least 10 million dollars for support of fifty-three Christian colleges and universities affiliated with the denomination. Nearly half the basic sum already has been raised.

The United Lutheran church reports progress comparable with the Missouri synod Lutheran group, said the Rev. Dr. Armin G. Weng of Elgin, president of the Illinois synod of the United church.

Dr. Weng asserted that Chicago is to become one of the greatest Lutheran centers in America, with many persons urging the organization of a great Lutheran university here.

He said the increased scope of work now done by the national Lutheran council increases the possibility of such an institution. The National Lutheran council represents the coöperative work of a half dozen independently organized national churches.

"Chicago should become a center for Lutheran education," said Dr. Weng. "With the vast Lutheran population of Chicago, once Lutheran unity has been achieved, great forward steps will be taken. All Lutheran leaders feel that we are on the threshold of a most significant day in American Lutheranism."

"THE ESSENCE OF HEAVEN"

By CALEB

ENVELOPED in the mystery and fascination of centuries, Jade is one of the world's most prized possessions among valuable stones. Designated in ancient literature as "The Essence of Heaven," it was deified with mystic protective and curative properties, in the Orient; and is still sought and cherished by the Occident for its enthralling colors, ethereal charm, and rewarding permanence.

Carving of this exquisite stone, however, is a challenge to infinite patience—the climax to an agelong tradition of artistry. Matching the diamond's hardness of 10 with its own hardness of 7, jade is far more difficult to cut than steel. From five months' to five years' toil is often devoted to a single piece; and the cutter's tradition has been handed down from sons to sons to sons through unbroken generations.

Hues that shimmer through gray, yellow, brown, red, lavender and blue to clearest emerald-green and purest white—add inimitable allure to imperishable substance. One of its loveliest patterns—green intermingled with white—the Chinese have poetically termed: "Moss entangled in melting snow."

The completeness of the jade collection on our second-floor Wabash could hardly be better illustrated than by the visit, some years ago, of three members of the English nobility who had just arrived from the Orient. One of these gentlemen, being a famous collector of jade, insisted on spending an entire afternoon with us . . . with the result that he not only purchased several notable pieces, but honored us with the exclamation: "Marvelous! I return from a trip through China, only to find the finest example of all here in Chicago. It's simply marvelous!"

True jade is known by its ice-cold feel when touched to the face. And characteristically, its craftsmen of the Far East have made the most of an almost unlimited variety of tints and color-nuances, in their work. As typical pieces among our collection, you will find thumb-rings, once worn by archers for protection against the bowstring—unique lighted urns, with designs copied from old bronzes—objects exhibiting sacred fruit motifs—quaint little boxes carved from a single stone, where even the hinge is of jade—pins, snuff-bottles, earrings, small figures and other art-objects . . . all distinguished by that indescribable quality the ancients so aptly called, "The Essence of Heaven."

SURVEY OFFERS $1,700,000,000 U. S. BUDGET CUT

Nonpartisan Body Points to Bankruptcy Peril.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., March 5.—[Special.]—Accepting the President's challenge to show where and how government expenditures can be reduced, the National Economy league today issued a study of federal finances, setting forth the possibility of cutting Mr. Roosevelt's 1940 budget to the extent of 1 billion 708 million dollars.

With this retrenchment and a 600 million dollar increase in taxes, the deficit would be scaled down from a prospective 3 billion dollars to an estimated 500 millions. This plan paves the way for a balancing of the budget at an early date. The principal cuts would be in relief, public works, and farm subsidies.

"Before genuine recovery can be a reality," said the league, "all doubts about the national credit must be removed."

Obstacles Recognized.

The National Economy league, organized in 1932 to provide nonpartisan leadership for sound federal finances, declares that it recognizes the practical impossibility of reducing federal government expenditures by 3 billion dollars within a single fiscal year.

Accordingly, a "deficit reducing" budget of 7 billion 287 million dollars is urged for immediate adoption for the next fiscal year. The league estimates that all but 1 billion 145 million dollars of this sum can be covered by receipts from present tax laws, assuming some improvement in business conditions.

For a completely balanced federal budget, which the league contends is "a goal possible of achievement in the near future, if there is the will to balance the budget," the league emphasizes the drastic reduction in present spending which must be made.

3 Billions 128 Millions Cut Off.

From a present officially estimated level of expenditures of 9 billion 492 million dollars for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1939, spending must in due course be reduced to a level of 6 billion 364 million dollars. This is a reduction of 3 billion 128 million dollars from the current spending rate and 2 billion 631 million dollars below the President's budget for the fiscal year 1940.

The comparison between the President's budget for the fiscal year 1940 and the "deficit reducing" budget recommended for the same period by the league, is as follows in millions:

Expenditures—	President's budget for fiscal yr. 1940.	Budget proposed by league.	Savings.
Relief	$2,040	$1,400	$ 640
Public works	1,131	700	431
Social security	928	928	.....
AAA	694	500	194
Natl. defense	1,320	1,320	.....
Interest	1,050	†1,025	25
Veterans	539	539	.....
All other	*1,293	875	418
Total	$8,995	$7,287	$1,708
Receipts	5,669	‡6,142	.....
Net deficit	3,326	1,145	.....

*Includes supplementary estimate of 100 million dollars.

‡Possible revenue under present laws assuming some improvement in business conditions.

Elaborating upon the reductions necessary for a budget completely in balance, the league says:

"Federal relief—in spite of its continually mounting cost—does not provide a uniform nor humane method of handling the problem of human need.

"We propose a return to a coöperative system of relief in which the responsibility for administration will be left to state and local authorities, assisted by grants in aid from the federal government. Our studies show that such a change would cut relief costs in half."

Warns of Impaired Credit.

In the summary and conclusions of its entire study, the league says:

"The present rate of federal spending is three times as great as it was in the nine years preceding the deficit period. Expenditures have risen to new heights not merely because of the 'normal' expansion of government services but because of the deliberate adoption of a policy of deficit financing.

"We must face the implications of this theory of spending. With each new spending program superimposed on the previous level of expenditures, the total level of expenditure constantly is increased. As a result, expenditures continually exceed any reasonable possible revenues.

"An indefinite postponement of a balanced budget will lead eventually to the popular belief that the government is unable to balance the budget. When that point is reached, public confidence in the national credit will collapse and the government will be forced to drastic measures—excessive taxation or inflation, or both."

The members of the league committee submitted the budget report unanimously. Among the economists who signed it are Dr. Fred R. Fairchild of Yale, Dr. Harley L. Lutz, Princeton; Dr. Walter E. Spahr, New York university, and Dr. Dan T. Smith of the Harvard Business school.

Reorganization Plan Deflated.

The Brookings institution today made public a study of governmental operations which concluded that no substantial savings can be accomplished by mere reorganization of executive agencies.

"Savings large enough to play an important part in bringing government outgo down to the level of income can come only from elimination and curtailment of certain types of activities," the study said.

The report was prepared for the institution, a private research organization, by Dr. Lewis Merian, chairman of the Institute for Government Research, and Dr. L. F. Schmeckebier. It was made public on the eve of house consideration of a new government reorganization bill.

Must Curtail Functions.

The Brookings study points out that only 17.65 per cent of the annual budget goes for costs of administration. "The primary requirement for achieving substantial reductions in expenditures is to curtail functions and activities," it said.

The study contended that the problem of excess government personnel does not arise primarily from duplication of activities by different agencies. Other more significant factors, it said, were creation of unnecessary positions and filling them with political appointees, appointment of unqualified persons, failure to reduce staffs when "organizational installation" periods were over, and failure to adopt efficient business practices.

ILLINOIS' WOMEN CRIMINALS FIND PRISON A LUXURY

Dwight Institution Costs Taxpayers Heavily.

BY GEORGE WRIGHT.

The Dwight Reformatory for Women Criminals nestles among beautiful oak groves two miles west of Dwight, in Livingston county.

Although 241 women prisoners, 51 of them murderers under long term sentences and many of them members of vicious robber gangs, are incarcerated in this cottage plan reformatory, only a wire fence separates them from freedom. Forty-eight have escaped in the last eight years.

Oakdale is the name on the graceful archways at the entrance. To the passing motorist the prison might appear to be a luxurious country club or a wealthy estate. A small plaque inside the door of the administration building announces that Oakdale is a reformatory for women.

Taxpayers Pay for Luxury.

Illinois pays dearly for the luxurious atmosphere it provides for its vicious women criminals. The most expensive of the Illinois prisons, Dwight last year cost the taxpayers $607 for each inmate. This is three times the average cost of running the larger prisons for men. [The average cost of the men's prisons is $200 for each inmate. St. Charles Training School for Boys costs $513 for each inmate.]

The buildings at Dwight are spread over the 100 acres within the ten foot cyclone wire fence. Another sixty acres are used for farming. From the beautiful administration building roads and paths run back through the oak groves and lawns to the cottages, work buildings, dormitories, and hospital.

The women sentenced for one year usually spend their first three months in a dormitory. Then they are transferred to the cottages as vacancies occur. The behavior of those with longer sentences determines when they may occupy one of the cottage berths.

Rooms Are Works of Beauty.

The dormitory rooms are works of beauty. The semblances of prison atmosphere are the solid doors on the rooms. When the doors are closed and locked a peephole allows the matron to see what the inmates are doing.

The cottages average twenty-four inmates. Many of the windows have bright colored curtains and on some of the window sills plants are growing. All of the comforts of a good home are provided for the inmates.

Dwight's hospital, in charge of Dr. Eva Wilson, is equipped with every facility. Dr. Wilson says she has seventy patients with syphilis and eight with other venereal diseases. She also has three babies in her care in the nursery. The inmates are taken outside the prison for childbirths and are allowed to keep their babies for one year.

The prisoners are well fed, with a balanced diet of fruit, vegetables, and meat. They get desserts with their evening meal. Sometimes they get it with lunch. Each cottage has a separate dining room, and only the women assigned to the cottage eat there.

Saturday afternoon movies are provided for the inmates. The money to purchase the film comes from the profits of the commissary, where grade A prisoners—prisoners whose behavior is exemplary—may spend $2 a week for makeup, sweets, or other luxuries not provided by the state. Grade A prisoners also may do outside shopping. They may spend $5 a month with mail order houses for decorations for their rooms or for personal articles.

Dances are held occasionally, and the women dance with each other. Picnics are arranged in the summer time—within the grounds, of course. Musicals are held at intervals.

Inmates Paid for Work.

Some of the inmates even get paid for being in the so-called reformatory. The eighty selected prisoners who work in the shirt shop are paid 2 cents an hour. They may use half their pay to supply themselves with luxuries not furnished by the state. They must send the other half to their dependents, if they have any.

The shirt shop turns out eighteen dozen shirts—most of them dress shirts—and some flags each day. The shirts are sold to other state institutions, many of them going to the penitentiaries to make up the going away wardrobes of released convicts. The women work in two shifts in the shirt shop, forty on each shift of four hours.

The women criminals also do some laundry work. This is usually their first work assignment. The laundry is equipped with every modern device, so that all the prisoners really do is operate the machines. In the summer some of them do some truck farming under the direction of Mrs. Phoebe Martin, the prison's farmerette. Others devote their time to fancy work.

Women Run the Prison.

The prison is run exclusively by women. The only men on the place are the mechanics and the three night guards.

Miss Helen H. Hazard, who has been the superintendent since the prison was opened in 1930, got her training in prison administration at the Connecticut state farm for women and at the Alderson [W. Va.] federal industrial institution for women. She has had fourteen years' experience since she was graduated from Columbia university.

Miss Hazard says her records show that she has in her charge fifty-one murderers serving sentences of from 14 to 199 years, forty-four women serving manslaughter sentences of from one to fourteen years, twelve charged with robbery and serving one year to life sentences, and twenty-four serving one to ten year sentences for larceny. The others are charged with various crimes calling either for indeterminate sentences or for a maximum of one year.

Little Trouble Reported.

The superintendent says she does not have much trouble with the inmates that the women attendants cannot handle. The form of punishment is solitary confinement in a cottage. The room is stripped of all its furniture except a mattress, and the offending prisoner is fed with bread and coffee, milk, or tea during the punishment period.

Miss Hazard and her staf study the progress of the prisoners every three months and make recommendations for paroles to the parole board. She said that 173 women have been paroled from Dwight in eight years and that only twenty-six have been returned as violators. Six others are being sought on warants.

Saved from River

Bridgetender Frank Teall (right) working to revive young man who was rescued from river early today. The man's face is contorted from shock and cold.

A perfect throw of a life preserver by Park Policeman Albert Fuchs saved the life of a young man who had plunged into the river at the Michigan avenue bridge early today.

Policeman Fuchs.

His cries for help were heard by the policeman, Bridgetender Reinhardt Emmerich, and Joseph O'Donnell, 7731 Essex avenue, a passerby. Emmerich and O'Donnell tried to throw preservers to the man from the upper level of the bridge, but were handicapped by the high wind.

Policeman Fuchs, seeing their difficulty, ran down to the lower level with a lifebelt. He saw the man struggling in the icy water twenty feet away, measured the distance and threw. His aim was so perfect the belt struck the man. He seized it and was towed in. He was almost unconscious from shock and cold and was taken to the County hospital. He is about 22 years old.

Japs Capture Port

Arrow locates Shantung province, port of Lungkow, which was captured yesterday by Japanese.

SHANGHAI, March 5.—(AP)—Japanese reported today the occupation of the important seaport of Lungkow and two nearby inland towns in a series of lightninglike strokes which tightened their grip on the guerrilla-ridden north shore of Shantung province.

The fall of Lungkow and the towns of Hwanghsien and Chaoyuan was said to have cleared Chinese irregulars from that portion of Shangtung in which the hit-and-run fighters have taken a heavy toll of Japanese.

To the south, in neighboring Kiangsu province, the Japanese said their forces followed up the capture of Haichow, coastal terminus of the east-west Lunghai railway, by surrounding 60,000 Chinese troops southwest of the fallen city.

The Japanese, blasting a bloody path through northern Kiangsu, said naval aircraft were aiding land forces in "exterminating" the surrounding Chinese.

ROCKFORD GIRLS SAY GOOD-BY TO KENYON DATERS

Rockford, Ill., March 5.—[Special.]—Thirty Kenyon college men said good-by late today to thirty Rockford college women and started back to Gambier, O., their second experience with intersectional mass dating s success. Last year forty Rockford women were guests of forty men in Gambier for a week-end.

The Kenyon dates came by automobile to Rockford. Some arrived Friday night and the rest yesterday morning. The hostesses, chosen by their classmates, had a full week-end planned. There was a picnic at noon, tea dance in the afternoon, and an informal dance last night.

Today the girls entertained the men at breakfast, escorted them to church, and wound up the busy schedule with a symphony concert this afternoon. The guests said they will be looking forward to another mass date in Gambier next spring.

NEW RECORD SET AS 12,499 VOTERS REGISTER IN DAY

A one day record for the registration of voters—12,499—was set yesterday as Chicagoans thronged the election board offices in the city hall to qualify for a vote in the April 4 election. It was the first time the ofiices had been open for registration on a Sunday.

The last chance to register will be today, from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. There will be no city-wide registration before the election.

A total of 6,455 men and 6,044 women registered yesterday. There were 5,447 changes of address handled. A staf of 285 extra clerks in addition to the regular staf of 115 took care of the crowds speedily.

OPEN NEW MOVE TOMORROW FOR RELIEF MERGER

Stelle Backs Proposals to Cut Overhead.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

A new and more vigorous attempt to merge state administration of relief, old age assistance, and other forms of aid will be launched tomorrow in Springfield with the support of Acting Governor John Stelle.

Otto Doering.

The movement to economize on overhead costs of handling public assistance was started nearly four years ago by a citizens' commission headed by Otto C. Doering. Nothing was done to carry out this commission's recommendations.

Almost a year ago a second citizens' commission, headed by Walter L. Gregory, made a report urging consolidation of scattered supervision of public assistance. Gov. Horner referred the report to the legislature.

Stelle Indorses Proposals.

Now Acting Governor Stelle has picked the matter up and has given force to the primary recommendations by indorsing them. He said he favored creation of a new state department of public assistance to unify functions now belonging to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission [IERC] and the state department of public welfare.

Called to meet with Stelle are Doering, Gregory, Stanley P. Farwell, another leader of the reform movement; Leo M. Lyons, executive secretary of the IERC, and members of the legislature.

Mr. Farwell said he was pleased at the promise of action similar to that which has been taken in several other states in the last two years. He said it does not matter greatly whether the unified program comes under a new state department or a new division of the department of public welfare, as the Gregory commission advised.

Would End Duplication.

General relief using state funds—old age assistance, and aid for dependent children, mothers, and the blind—all would come under a single administrative setup. This would eliminate duplication in giving aid to a person from several sources, it was said.

State Senator Harold G. Ward, majority leader in the upper house, said yesterday that a pegged levy bill for the Chicago school system is ready for introduction in the senate tomorrow.

He said it may be passed in the senate Thursday. The bill would enable the board of education to restore the ten month [forty week] school year. At present the term is thirty-eight weeks.

Under the bill the school levy would be increased from $47,500,000 to $50,275,000 for 1939 and 1940.

SUICIDE LEAVES NOTE ADMITTING HE SLEW GIRL, 13

St. Joseph, Mo., March 5.—(AP)—William P. Purkhiser, 53 years old, an insurance man, was found shot to death in a rooming house here today, leaving a letter in which Coroner B. W. Tadlock said he confessed the killing of Haselteen Black, 13, Oklahoma City junior high school girl. He shot himself through the head.

Purkhiser's letter, addressed to his wife, referred to troubles he had had with the girl's mother, Mrs. R. W. Scharber.

"As for what happened last Thursday," the note read, "I can no more give you an account than I can fly. I went out there because I did not think anybody would be home, so I would be there when the Scharbers came home and try to get things straight. When I found her [Haselteen] there and that she had been turned against me, too, I lost all reasoning and nothing but a terrible nightmare followed. Haselteen was an innocent victim of circumstances, just as she has been most of her life."

Detective Chief Charles Ryan of Oklahoma City said Purkhiser once was connected with the Scharbers in business and that he had been trying to borrow money from them.

Cow Gives Birth to Twins, but 1 Arrives 11 Days Late

DRIVER KILLS ONE GIRL AND INJURES ANOTHER; FLEES

Third Escapes; Victims Are Hospital Workers.

A young woman was killed and another was seriously injured last night by a motorist who struck them at Augusta boulevard and Lavergne avenue. He escaped. A third young woman escaped unhurt.

The woman killed was Miss Josephine Ann Skok, 19 years old. Her sister, Margaret, 18, was uninjured, and Miss Pearl Naggle, also 18, suffered a possible skull fracture. All were resident employés at St. Anne's hospital, 4950 Thomas street.

Dies of Trafic Injuries.

Frank Betker, 64 years old, 1323 Adams street, died yesterday in the County hospital of injuries suffered earlier in the day when he walked into the side of an automobile at Ashland avenue and Madison street. The driver was Jonas Parker, 1430 Washburne avenue.

Albert Bettin, 74 years old, 5118 West 31st street, Cicero, died in the Berwyn hospital last night of injuries incurred Saturday evening when he was struck by an automobile at 29th place and 52d avenue in the suburb. The car was driven by Richard Janachowski, 15 years old, 5028 West 32d street.

Body of Car Victim Identified.

The body of a man found early yesterday in front of 4039 State street, evidently the victim of a hit-and-run motorist, was identified through finger prints as that of John Christie. In 1918 he served 90 days in the Bridewell for larceny.

Carl Redemske, 4044 North Mango avenue, lost control of his car yesterday. It struck a parked automobile, leaped the curb, and smashed into the plate glass window of the public library branch at 3718 Irving Park road. Redemske was uninjured.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 154 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these 123 were killed in Chicago, where 3,132 were injured in the same period.

LEADERS OF G. O. P. TO SPEAK AT GREEN RALLY TOMORROW

Leaders of former campaigns will join with 1939 nominees in stirring Republican enthusiasm at a massmeeting in the Auditorium tomorrow night.

Dwight H. Green, the G. O. P. entry in the present mayoral race, will be the principal speaker. The program also will include talks by Otis F. Glenn, former United States senator; Richard J. Lyons, party nominee for United States senator in 1938, and C. Wayland Brooks, nominee for governor in 1936.

On the platform also will be C. B. Goodspeed, treasurer of the Republican national committee; Mrs. Bertha Baur, national committeewoman for Illinois; County Chairman Edward F. Moore, and Mrs. Mabel Krutckoff, chairman of the women's division of the county committee. George F. Harding, national committeeman, is still convalescing from an operation performed in February and probably will not be present.

Chicago Acrobat Killed, Twin Injured in Crash

Seneca Falls, N. Y., March 5.—(AP)—En route to New York City to fill a booking at the world's fair, Ben V. Harris, 33 years old, a Chicago acrobat, was killed on the Seneca Falls-Auburn road today when the car in which he was riding crashed into a trailer truck. Harris' twin brother, Burt E. Harris, the driver, and the latter's wife, Loretta, were injured.

The Latest in Up-to-Dateness
~Personal Loans by Telephone

"Private Wire" FRanklin 5700

You may use the privacy of your own telephone—at home—at the office or shop—to arrange for any kind of a personal loan made by this bank. Just call our "PRIVATE WIRE DEPARTMENT"—Franklin 5700 (especially equipped with 20 trunk lines—no waiting). One of our loan officers will discuss the essential information—give you all the facts and figures—complete the application and give you an answer—just as though you had come in to the bank and arranged for the loan in person.

PRIVATE—CONVENIENT—QUICK

This is the latest in up-to-dateness in handling personal loans—privately—conveniently—quickly.

If you live or work outside the Loop or in the suburbs, you will find this private wire service a convenient time saver (and a "bad weather beater"!). If you office in a downtown skyscraper, you may save steps, "time off," or you don't have to hurry your lunch hour. If you are the woman of the house—the family treasurer—you may "order" a loan just like you put in an order at the store—and have the papers at home to discuss and complete with your husband after dinner.

BANKING BY PHONE

Call this "Banking by Phone" if you like—and a good idea. It is just another step forward, characteristic of the leadership of this pioneer Personal Bank—A million dollar Bank—doing SMALL things BIG.

EXPLORER FINDS VILLAGE UTOPIA IN 'LOST WORLD'

Two Waterfalls Higher than Niagara.

Schenectady, N. Y., March 5.—(AP)—Discovery on the slopes bordering Conan Doyle's "lost world" of a lost village where happiness exists was announced today at Union college.

The village lies in a huge gorge, nearly half a mile above sea level but still more than a mile below the flat summit of Mount Roraima, in British Guiana and Venezuela, which was Doyle's famed site of throwbacks of the earth's earlier days. It was located a few weeks ago by Dr. Paul A. Zahl, research associate of the Haskins laboratory in Union college, who went into the interior by seaplane. He returned last week.

Dr. Zahl also reported the discovery of two great waterfalls several times higher than Niagara. It was in the almost inaccessible gorge of one of these falls that he found the idyllic Indian community. Their life impressed Dr. Zahl as so idyllic that he remained a week. He said he found virtually perfect human relations among them. He said he never noticed a sign of anger, only laughter and general happiness.

Dr. Zahl said these Indians were a great contrast to those found near white settlements or mission centers. Indians who had frequent contacts with whites showed marked development of the weaker traits of the white race, such as jealousy, treachery and anger.

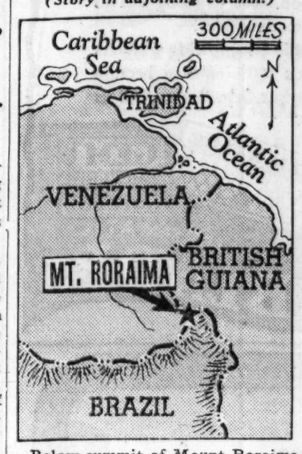
Dr. Zahl, who is 29 years old, was born near Chicago and reared in Sacramento, Cal. He attended Marquette university, Northwestern university, North Central college [Illinois], and Harvard.

Stench Bombs Halt Dance Attended by Bund Leader

Two stench bombs interrupted a dance early yesterday in the Germania club, 108 Germania place. Watching 400 dancers at the time were Fritz Kuhn, national leader of the German-American bund; Dr. Otto Willumheit, Chicago leader, and George Froboese, midwest director of the bund.

Modern Utopia

(Story in adjoining column.)



Below summit of Mount Roraima lies village where life, according to explorer, is idyllic.

CLEAVER HURLING KOSHER BUTCHER RIOTS IN HIS CELL

Four policemen were ready yesterday to file charges against Hyman Goldberg, already accused of selling nonkosher meat to orthodox Jews and of throwing a meat cleaver at the holder of a mortgage on his shop.

The policemen were injured in a one-man uprising staged at the Albany Park police station late Saturday night. The powerful Goldberg, who is 6 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 200 pounds, punched Sergt. Edward Kent in the eye when he sought to question him.

Back in his cell, Goldberg wrenched loose the washstand and toilet bowl and smashed the porcelain to bits on the floor. Then he hurled the pieces at policemen who got within range. Francis Pape, Herbert Krubacek and Henry Sprengle suffered cuts. Six prisoners cowered in corners.

WAR VETERAN DIES IN HOME.

POLISH JEWS RIOT AGAINST BRITISH; MANY ARRESTED

Police Wield Clubs to Disperse Mob.

BY DONALD DAY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, March 5.—Thousands of followers of Vladimir Jabotinski, leader of the Zionist revisionists, rioted in Warsaw today in front of the British embassy and consulate. They protested against the British government's attitude toward demands of the Jewish delegation to the London Palestine conference.

Grigore Gafencu, Rumanian foreign minister.

Following the example of Polish university students who twice smashed windows in the German embassy a week ago, the Jewish rioters broke windows in the British offices.

Many were arrested as police reserves were called out. Others were beaten when police used riot clubs to empty the streets.

Adopt Nazi Methods.

Jabotinski's followers wear brown shirts and Sam Browne belts and have adopted many Nazi methods. Of the seven Zionist parties, the revisionists are the most militant. Their leaders said their program is to clean out the Arabs in Palestine with the same thoroughness that Reichsfuehrer Hitler has adopted in expelling the Jews from Germany.

They said they are organizing an army of east European Jews to fight for Jewish rights in Palestine, and claimed that both the Polish and Rumanian governments are supporting the organization.

Polish officials said the riots confirmed the urgent need for large scale Jewish emigration. The seriousness of the problem, an official spokesman said, is not fully realized in London, Paris, and Washington, D. C.

Discuss Emigration.

Jewish emigration also is one of many topics being discussed in Warsaw by Foreign Minister Col. Josef Beck of Poland and Foreign Minister Grigore Gafencu of Rumania.

Poland in 1931 had 3,114,000 persons, or 9.8 per cent of the population, who professed the Hebrew faith, according to the bureau of statistics. Since then, however, the number of Jews in the country has increased through an influx from Germany and Czecho-Slovakia. Of Rumania's population in 1934, 5 per cent was Jewish.

BRITISH KILL 5 ARABS IN HOLY LAND AFTER BLAST INJURES JEWS

JERUSALEM, March 5.—(AP)—British troops killed five members of an armed band of rebels near Acre, at the Lebanese frontier, today. The clash followed the explosion of a land mine under a car filled with Jewish workmen. One of the workmen was injured seriously and two others were hurt slightly.

At Jerusalem shots were fired during funeral services for Adnan Nashashibi, nephew of Ragheb Bey Nashashibi, leader of the Arab national defense party. Nashashibi died of wounds inflicted by an Arab at Herod's gate, near the old city of Jerusalem.

The attack which caused Nashashibi's death was the fifth in three months on members of the influential family. Its members are considered moderates as opposed to the strongly anti-British following of the exiled Grand Mufti of Jerusalem, Haj Amin Effendi Al Husseini.

★ THE RULES ★

1. This offer is open FREE to everyone everywhere, excepting employes of the Chicago Tribune and their families.
2. A new crossword puzzle containing the name and nickname of a famous American will be printed in the Chicago Daily Tribune each weekday until 42 have appeared. You are invited to solve these puzzles and find the names and nicknames.
3. Puzzles are to be submitted only in complete sets. DO NOT send in each puzzle separately. Hold until you have the entire set of 42. Then send to: "Nicknames," Chicago Tribune, Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Illinois. Entries must be in by midnight one week after Puzzle No. 42 has been printed. Send by First Class Mail, postage prepaid.
4. The Chicago Tribune will pay 430 cash prizes, totaling $5,000.00 for the most nearly correctly solved complete sets of puzzles submitted in accordance with these rules. (See Prize List.) You do not have to solve ALL puzzles correctly to win. Prizes will be paid to those whose entries rank highest. No person may submit more than one entry and no one shall be entitled to more than one prize.
5. Each entry will be checked for accuracy and rated accordingly. Your entry must be accompanied by a letter giving your name and address and completing, in 25 words or less, a statement telling which Nickname you like best and why. Such statements will be considered only if two or more persons submit equally correct solutions to the puzzles, in which event, further judgment will be based on the originality and sincerity of the thought expressed. Answers must be the original thought of the contestant. The judges shall have the right to disqualify any entry which, in their sole judgment, appears to be the thought of another person.
6. You need not buy the Chicago Tribune. You may copy or trace the puzzles. The Tribune may be examined free at its offices or Public Libraries. The judges will be appointed by the Chicago Tribune and their decisions will be final and binding. In case of ties, duplicate awards will be paid to tying contestants.

A New Way to Buy a New Car at a New Low Cost!

Preferred Buyers Plan

TRADE-MARK REGISTERED

The Car Buying Public wanted it . . . Auto Dealers asked for it . . . and General Finance Corporation is the first to give—

A BETTER DEAL TO NEW CAR BUYERS!

What is this revolutionary new Plan? Why is it called the PREFERRED BUYERS PLAN? Because up to now, finance sources have not given proper recognition to the fact that the chance for loss decreases as the down payment on a new car increases.

PREFERRED BUYERS PLAN rewards the buyer who makes a larger down payment by giving him a lower rate. Yet the buyer who makes a small down payment never pays more than the former, lowest rate!

Savings up to 50%

Thus, the larger the down payment the lower the finance rate. This fairer way reduces finance costs 33-1/3% to 50% to many buyers. See the table of examples for representative savings up to 50% of former costs!

Obtainable From ANY Dealer

Select the car you prefer. Sit down with your dealer and work out all financing details in a few minutes. Everything — including complete insurance protection is handled at one time, in one place. No annoying red tape — no running from one place to another. And by buying under an installment contract, you conserve your bank credit and borrowing power for unforeseen emergencies! Read how General Finance Corporation's liberal policy gives you extra benefits — then insist upon the PREFERRED BUYERS PLAN when you get your next car!

Lowest in Cost!

DEPENDING ON DOWN PAYMENT AS LITTLE AS $3 PER YEAR PER $100

Representative Savings On Customary Unpaid Balances

Unpaid Balance	Previous Generally Established Cost	Preferred Buyers Plan New Low Cost	Percent Savings
$300	$18.00	$ 9.00	50%
400	24.00	16.00	33⅓%
500	30.00	25.00	16⅔%

Only basic finance costs are shown above. In all instances protective insurance is required, the cost of which is extra.

A Fair Policy=A Square Deal

General Finance Corporation treatment of customers is frank, generous and considerate in all respects. These points summarize its liberal attitude.

1. Generous extension of payment dates in time of stress.
2. Finance charge rebate if contract is paid before maturity.
3. In the event of accident, repair bills below minimum insurance coverage (deductible type policy) financed without charge.
4. Special consideration in the case of illness or unemployment — real cooperation before repossession.

MARTIN REVEALS 170,000 DROP OUT OF AUTO UNION

Insists He Controls Two-Thirds Majority.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Detroit, Mich., March 5.—[Special.]—Homer Martin revealed today in his anti-C. I. O. automobile workers' convention that the dues paying membership of the entire United Automobile Workers union had shrunk from 370,000 to 200,000.

In computing his strength Martin estimated the total number of U. A. W. locals in good standing at 225. Of this number he claims 155 locals are represented in the present convention, backing him in his fight against John L. Lewis and communist control of the union.

Although Martin claims control of more than two-thirds of the union locals, the showdown on the strength of his following in the convention today indicates that he controls considerably less than half of the total membership.

Committee Allots Votes.

The convention credentials committee allotted 629 votes to delegates representing the 155 locals. Under union rules of 1 vote for each 100 local union members this would give Martin a backing of 62,900 members.

This was not his entire strength, though. Late today the convention went into closed session as a committee of the whole to thrash out the question of representation to be given to rank and file delegates present. They represent pro-Martin groups in locals which have voted to send delegates to the anti-Martin convention, March 27, at Cleveland, O.

But Martin continued his assertion that representation in his convention constitutes a "clear cut majority" of the union members in good standing [those who have kept their dues paid up] and thus are eligible to vote. This number he places at 200,000.

The convention session today indicates that Martin plans to turn his U. A. W. following into an independent union divorced for the time being from both the C. I. O., which has condemned Martin, and also from the American Federation of Labor. The question of A. F. of L. affiliation may come to a vote at the convention, however.

During the day, the meeting received a friendly message from David Dubinsky, head of the Ladies' Garment Workers, who withdrew last fall from the C. I. O. It heard Martin again denounce John L. Lewis, as a tool of communists, and it approved Martin's actions in the negotiations for unionization of Henry Ford's plants, the negotiations in which the anti-Martin group charges Martin with having attempted to betray the union.

Takes Slap at Lewis.

Dubinsky's message was a plea for labor peace, both in the A. F. of L.-C. I. O. negotiations sponsored by President Roosevelt, and in the automobile union split. In an acknowledgment, approved by the convention and sent to Dubinsky, the auto workers spoke for national labor peace on a basis of recognition of their industrial form of organization, in mass production industries. They pledged to do everything possible to unify their own union "on a responsible, democratic basis as a progressive, autonomous union."

This last phrase was a slap at the C. I. O. and John L. Lewis, whom Martin has accused repeatedly of using dictatorial tactics in an attempt to turn control of the auto union over to the communist minority within its ranks.

In a lengthy printed report of the whole controversy within the union ranks, brought into the open at the national convention in 1937 at Milwaukee, Martin again slammed Lewis and the communists. He wrote:

"John L. Lewis and those allied with him have been used by the communist party and its allies as a crutch to maintain a position in the leadership in which their support among the rank and file of the auto workers has never waranted." Repeatedly in the report Martin charged a Lewis-Stalinist conspiracy to get control of the auto union. Later denouncing R. J. Thomas, rival president elected by the anti-Martin faction, he drew roars of laughter from the crowd of delegates by a reference to "Mr. Thomas and his termites."

In a long extemporaneous speech this morning Martin declared that the C. I. O. as such has never given the auto union a cent, and that $26,000 member unions of the C. I. O. gave the union during its early struggles have been more than repaid by the auto union's payment of $136,000 in per capita taxes, to the C. I. O.

"We are not affiliated with the C. I. O.," Martin declared. "Technically, legally, that is correct. We had a so-called working arrangement with them, by which we gave them $136,000. We had a so-called working arrangement with them by virtue of which they proposed to come in and take over our union to run it to suit John L. Lewis."

Declaring that the auto workers pulled out of the A. F. of L. because that body sought to run their internal affairs, Martin went on to attack Lewis on the charge that he has attempted the same thing.

Lewis, he charged, set aside regularly constituted international unions in the steel, textile, and plate glass industries and turned control of unionizing activities in those fields over to organizing committees controled by his lieutenants. A similar organizing committee is seeking to unionize packing house workers.

LABOR DELEGATIONS OPEN PEACE PARLEYS IN CAPITAL TOMORROW

Washington, D. C., March 5.—(AP)—The C. I. O.-A. F. of L. peace conferees will begin their discussions at a White House conference Tuesday afternoon, a government official said today.

The two groups, selected after President Roosevelt suggested such action to John L. Lewis, C. I. O. chieftain, and William Green, A. F. of L. president, will be accompanied to Mr. Roosevelt's office by Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins.

Lewis, Philip Murray, and Sidney Hillman, vice presidents, will represent the Congress of Industrial Organizations. Matthew Woll, Thomas A. Rickert, and Harry C. Bates, all vice presidents of the American Federation of Labor, will speak for the A. F. of L.

FOUND A SHORT BUT LOST A METER

It was a pretty sizeable article to lose, but even the bulkiest kind of property can be lost when circumstances conspire against the owner.

Whenever you lose anything of value, be sure to telephone a Lost and Found want ad to the Chicago Tribune. Thousands of dollars' worth of property is restored each year to owners who advertise in the Lost and Found column of the Tribune.

Regardless of what you may have lost, or where in Chicago or suburbs you may have lost it, there is a good chance that a Tribune reader will find it.

Every day of the week, the Tribune is read by more than 725,000 families right in metropolitan Chicago. This is practically as many as read any two other Chicago newspapers combined.

Further, the Tribune is Chicago's big want ad marketplace, carrying far more want advertising and, as a result, attracting far more want ad readers than any other Chicago newspaper.

As an extra service to Tribune Lost and Found advertisers, all such ads are kept for three months after publication in a special register open to the public at the Tribune Public Service Offices, 1 S. Dearborn Street and in Tribune Tower, 435 N. Michigan Avenue.

Call Superior 8100—Want Ad-Viser and ask for Miss Miller if you have lost something recently. Miss Miller will help you word your want ad. If your name is in the phone book, you may charge your Tribune want ad.

You, too, will find Beecham's Pills a better way to get rid of that tired-out, logy feeling due to temporary constipation. There's good reason why millions of people the world over use Beecham's. This purely vegetable compound works thoroughly, more pleasantly—leaves you feeling internally cleansed and refreshed. Buy today. 3 sizes—10¢, 25¢, 50¢.

A JOB-DESTROYING UTOPIA.

The Tennessee Valley authority has bought out the principal private power companies in its territory. In so doing the TVA has acquired four sizable steam plants with a total capacity of 158,000 kilowatts. These generators, which have been using some 300,000 tons of coal a year, are now to be shut down except for occasional service in periods of drouth or other emergencies.

According to the estimates presented recently in THE TRIBUNE by John Fisher, the loss of this market for coal represents the loss of 300,000 days' work for men now employed. Most of the loss will be felt in the mines and on the railroads, two of the most gravely depressed industries in the country.

If Tennessee river power were notably more economical than steam power all this loss of work and the resultant suffering and relief expense entailed might have its dollars and cents justification. The hardboiled economist might say that the gain overbalanced the loss and in any event the displacement of the coal miners and railroad men was inevitable.

But no such case can be made for this outrage. Tennessee river power is not relatively cheap power. On any honest accounting, and without any reference to the human suffering entailed in the destruction of a market for coal, the power produced at the TVA dams comes high. Only by falsifying the books, by allocating a fictitious share of the outlay to navigation, flood control, and other items can the costs of power generated at the dams be made to present a favorable showing. When it is remembered that the private power companies have been paying more than 4½ million dollars a year in taxes to the federal and state governments, the disparity is correspondingly increased.

Vast sums of public money are being poured into the TVA rathole. Miners and railroad men are losing their jobs. Thousands of acres of arable land are being drowned. The investigation of TVA gave an intimation of the extent of the graft involved and it may safely be assumed that only the surface was scratched. Senator Berry's squeeze was prevented only by the active conscience of Dr. Morgan, and Dr. Morgan is no longer among those in a position to prevent looting. No one familiar with the ways of politics and politicians can have much doubt about what has been happening and what will happen to the immense sums being squandered in the name of Utopia.

AGE IN COMMAND.

More attention is being given to problems of defense than in any other peacetime period of American history. Even congressmen, not on the army or navy committees, discuss them. The reason for this unwonted state of mind has been stated in these columns and in the press throughout the country and need not be repeated here. But we should like to say that however exaggerated the fears sought to be spread among citizens as a cover for exaggerated expenditure and dangerous grants of power to government, some advantage ought to be taken of the public interest in defense questions to get some consideration of changes in matters that do not appeal to political interest or engage the civilian attention in ordinary times. They seem dry matters, perhaps, or technical to the civilian, but they have long needed solution.

One of these, for which THE TRIBUNE has repeatedly tried to induce more serious dealing by our authorities, is the difficult problem of age in high command.

It is a great pity that all our major generals are too old for the tremendous labor and strain of actual warfare. It is only the exception who reaches this rank before he is 60. Both major generals and brigadiers average roughly over 61 and 60, respectively, and the colonels about 57. This is past proper military age for these ranks.

This fact is slowly discovered and still more slowly corrected, and throughout the period of the war the general officers are beyond the age at which all but the most exceptional men can meet the physical strain of active campaigning. That undoubtedly is why combatants see so little of the higher officers and lack the moral support the presence of commanders can and should give. That is why the high command often lacks knowledge it ought to have and may commit ghastly tactical blunders like Passchendaele.

Most of the great commanders were not even as old as our colonels when they were commanding armies and at the height of their fame. We cannot, of course, fix standards on the basis of genius and wait for army leaders in their twenties because Napoleon was 26 in the Italian campaign, Alexander 25 at the peak of his military achievements, the great Condé 22 at Rocroi, Hannibal 30 when he invaded Italy. Yet the youth of great commanders has certainly significance in the general consideration of command, making all due allowance for the special qualities of genius. What must be taken into more consideration is the sheer physical requirements of military service in the higher ranks.

It is a very difficult problem, but it ought not to be impossible to provide that general officers should all be of an age at which in the natural order of things they may be expected to undergo the physical and moral stress of actual war exacted by the responsibilities of the rank they hold. A major general is not required to undergo the experiences of a combat officer, but he ought not to be past the age when he can be active in the field and able to withstand the intense and protracted strain of his own job. This need is peculiarly emphatic in the military calling and important to the highest military efficiency. The doctors tell us that even in civilian life it is necessary to slow down after middle age. In war there can be no slowing down. Our generals should be younger men.

WE POINT WITH PRIDE.

The growth of THE TRIBUNE'S circulation in recent years has been large, steady, and correspondingly gratifying. In each of the last thirty-six months a gain has been recorded over the corresponding month of the previous year. The circulation in February set a new all-time high in this newspaper's history of nearly ninety-two years and exceeds by far the sales of any standard sized newspaper published in this country. On Wednesday, the morning after the primary, the sales of THE TRIBUNE ran well above the million mark.

We should be a good deal less than candid if we did not express pride in these figures. From time to time, and especially in the last six years, friendly readers have cautioned us to pull our punches. Our attention was called to this or that attack upon us by some gigadibs in the radical press or the magazines. These authors, particularly in their more alcoholic or neurotic moments, have found satisfaction in calling us hard names and in so doing have echoed the crooked politicians. This was to have been expected. THE TRIBUNE today, as always, is the pet enemy of the destructive forces in the country.

We didn't pull our punches. From the moment a few months after the inauguration in 1933 when we first detected the trend of the New Deal we have been presenting the facts about it for the nation's consideration. In the beginning and for many months afterward the evidence was disbelieved and we were subjected to every pressure and attack which powerful influences could bring to bear against us.

We lost some readers, though not so many as our friends expected we would. For every one we lost we gained others, and by this time most of the canceled subscriptions are back on the books. We have continued to grow, month by month. The attacks upon us have not alienated our readers or shaken their confidence. Many doubters now have learned how correct our appraisal was and how truthfully we have reported the daily movement of events. That is why the rate of growth in circulation is more rapid now than formerly.

We didn't play safe. We did not follow the advice of the cautious, the timid, and the doubters. If we had done so there is little doubt that the New Deal bosses would have had much easier going and would have done even more damage than they have. They still don't like us, but hundreds of thousands of old readers and tens of thousands of new ones do. That suits us fine.

CITY INJURY SUITS.

The Illinois Supreme court's decision in the Strapelli personal injury suit against the city is certainly supported by common sense and public policy. In the suit a boy who slipped on ice while boarding a street car and suffered an injury through which he lost three toes was awarded damages of $5,000 against the city. We may sympathize with the boy, but if the city is to be held liable for every injury of this nature it becomes a general insurer of every one who uses its streets. There would be almost no limit to its liability. No city could keep its streets at all times in such condition as to prevent all accidents, especially in winter and bad weather. It cannot prevent rain from falling or ice from forming. There are reasonable bounds to its duty to prevent dangerous conditions.

A rule which would sustain damages in such cases as that of Strapelli would not only impose the heaviest burden on the taxpayers and a virtually impossible standard of administration, but it would open the door wide to fraudulent and trumped up litigation. There are already $500,000 in damages granted for personal injuries against the city on the basis of dubious and vague liability. Juries are likely to sympathize with the individual and overlook what the city can afford to pay, disregarding the fact that it is its citizens who pay. Corporation Counsel Hodes has protested against the tendency even of judges, and notably out-of-town judges serving in Chicago, to permit improper and excessive awards in these cases. The Supreme court decision will protect the city and therefore the public from exactions of this unreasonable kind.

MORE RUSSIAN CONFESSIONS.

The Russian secret police agents and provocateurs who were discovered in acts of terror against school children, arrested, tried, and sentenced, were the natural products of the system in which they worked. The atrocity they committed could not be condoned even by the tyranny which incited it, but neither could the tyranny disclaim it.

The agents extorted confessions from children of 10 and 12 years that they had been engaged in treasonable counter-revolutionary activities and were members of a wrecking organization. One little boy told his tormenters that he had joined the pro-Fascist conspiracy at the age of 7.

The formula was perfect. It has been the death warant of hundreds of thousands. The agents picked the fruit of the firing squad but picked it too young. It was not ripe. The army of spies and agents which protects Stalin and supports his dictatorship must find victims to demonstrate its watchfulness. Advancement and privilege depend on the success of the provocateurs in getting them. If the little boys had been ten years older they wouldn't have had a chance.

Editorial of the Day

THE HIGHLANDERS CAN KEEP THEIR KILTS.

[San Francisco Chronicle.]

His majesty's "ladies from hell" have been worried by reports that owing to the mechanization of war the kilt is to be abolished from Highland regimentals. To calm the agitation the British war office has announced that the kilt will be retained. The assurance, however, is only partial, that kilts will be retained for "walking out" and ceremonial occasions. Whether they will be part of the uniform on tank or other modern service remains to be seen. Just why the kilt should be so cherished as part of the costume for crawling through barbed-wire entanglements or where the bare knee may come into contact with hot pipes in war machines is beyond any imagination except the Scottish. The fact remains that to a nation which alone has not been kidded out of wearing kilts the garment is essential for the fighting man. As well take away the bagpipes as the kilt!

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

A MAN FROM WATERLOO.

In the Calumet industrial district, where steel, coal, and oil are demi-gods; where the clank of machinery, the flares from blast furnaces and the reek of smoke from metallic dragons are the day-and-night symbols of modernism, is a lonely grave upon a valuable plot of ground. Soulless corporations envy that dead man his last habitation and have sought to evict him, but without success. He was only a poor German fisherman, but the courts have ruled that he may rest in peace there.

* * *

We will let Contributor "Waubuno" tell the story of that grave:

"In the month of August, 1855, near the ferry at the mouth of the Calumet river, in the village of Ainsworth, there was buried a one armed fisherman known as Andreas Zirngibl, a native of Bavaria, said to have been a veteran of the battle of Waterloo, once the owner of exclusive fishing rights in some two miles of the River Danube. He had lived with his wife and children in a log house in the woods on the shore of Lake Michigan, at what is now the city of Whiting, Ind., and fishing had been his chief means of support.

"The grave was enclosed with a picket fence, and a wooden slab was erected over the grave bearing the inscription in German, 'Here rests in God the Lord the wellborn Andreas Zirngibl, born March 30, 1797, died Aug. 21, 1855.'

* * *

"Time passed; the village of Ainsworth disappeared and was forgotten. A great industrial district grew on its site; the ferry was replaced by a bridge; an important street was built passing within 100 feet of the little plot; the ground became valuable. The forty odd acres surrounding the grave became the subject of long litigation between the descendants of the fisherman and others, and in 1895 the Supreme court of Illinois rendered an opinion finding that the Zirngibl heirs had established title to the grave of their ancestor and to the ground within the enclosure around it, with right of access to and egress from it. There, at about 93d street, a little east of Ewing avenue, in the midst of a material yard, the grave still exists. The picket fence is painted white and a new marker has been erected, but the place is otherwise little changed and just as permanent as the famous Loop cow path."

RIDDLE OF THE AGES.

What is beauty?
Ask Plotinus
Or Aquinas
For the tale;
For this riddle of the ages
Hid behind a dark, dense veil.
(Katisha, recall, eke found it in the roaring of the gale!
Sammy Coleridge, like the Romans,
Called it multitude in unity;
Plato, Cicero and Socrates,
And Locke defined it with impunity).
So small wonder that we blunder trying
To refute the irrefutable,
To break the irrefragable, unscrew the old unscrutable.

My little baby girl asleep; the evening star;

JUST ANOTHER GUY.

I thought you were different; I told myself that.
I thought I could see by the tilt of your hat
You were just a bit nicer, a wee bit more fun;
I thought you might even be the number one.

I thought you were different; I tried to believe
That you were the kind who wouldn't want to leave.
But I see I'm a fool, for I thought I was wise;

This Joke Is No Laughing Matter.

One contrib [S. R. Fairlee] attributes the "Opened the window and in flew Enza" gag to Joseph Cawthorn in "The Fortune Teller," and another [George L. Weller] says that Jefferson De Angelis started it in a musical show of the late '90s. We grant that these comedians, and others, used it, but it was going around in the early '90s, and it probably started in some newspaper column. It is undoubtedly the worst gag that ever lived for fifty years.

WHEN THE THYROID GLAND FAILS.

WE have had a good deal to say about the toxic thyroid; of the damage which may be inflicted by unwonted activity on the part of this gland. Not only are we faced with a rapid heart and great nervousness, but the tissues of the body seem to melt away under our very eyes because of the speed with which they are burned.

But we must regard this structure and its product as essential to well being. Serious as may be its devouring characteristics when on a rampage, should it fail in its duties—its output fall below that which is needed—the situation is extremely unfortunate. The face of the victim is swollen, the skin coarse and dry, the hair brittle and thin, and the expression dull and lifeless. The picture is dominated by apathy and mental sluggishness. These symptoms typify what is commonly called myxedema and lie at the opposite extreme to those which characterize toxic goiter, or Graves' disease.

Now, a sizable number of these "too little thyroid" persons will exhibit certain curious, even puzzling, psychic tendencies. They may suffer from delusions of persecution and at times become completely confused as to their whereabouts. About all that is needed is that the difficulty shall be recognized accurately and that small doses of the gland shall be prescribed. Not only will the edematous, logy frame change for the better, but lack of ambition and purpose in life, as well as bewilderment, will disappear.

Most of these patients are women in their late forties or early fifties, and, strangely enough, the basal determination may not be substantially below normal. The physician is thus faced with a real problem and too much dependence must not be placed upon the report that the rate is only 8 or 10 points under the accepted standard. If the significant findings include overweight there may be ample reason to adopt the cautious administration of the dried thyroid which, if observed critically, can do no harm.

Occasionally these sufferers fall into the hands of psychiatrists where no amount of analysis will supply an organic lack. They do not require rehabilitation of the mind except that which is accomplished through restoring an important link in the endocrine [glands of internal secretion] chain.

The case of a woman, 42 years old, who appeared somewhat older, is reported by Kamman. She visited her doctor complaining of frequent crying spells, stating also that at times feelings of hopelessness about the future were well-nigh overwhelming. A basal test showed minus 13, which might have been considered within the limits of normal were it not for the fact that she was grossly obese with a slow pulse. Because of the salient factors in her history the employment of dried gland was begun and enough was given to bring about a loss of weight without producing toxic manifestations. Within two or three months she had lowered her avoirdupois 22 pounds, her basal reading had risen to plus 9, and all depression periods had vanished.

The whole matter may be summed up with the remark that many of these subnormal individuals do not present in toto every classical symptom. Nevertheless, if accompanied by other indications, thyroid extract plays a most beneficent rôle. We cannot account for the emotional reactions on the ground that foodstuffs are insufficient and that the nervous system, including the brain, is inadequately nourished. Unless intelligent help is provided many of these men and women will go from bad to worse, finally reaching a level of stagnation and ineffectualness which may bring them to chronic invalidism.

It should be emphasized that no thyroid preparation should be taken indiscriminately. The material is so powerful that it requires the watchfulness of a skilled physician to detect danger signals which may come from overdosage too long continued.

VERTIGO.

G. N. writes: Each morning when I get out of bed—as soon as my feet touch the floor my head goes into a tailspin. Unless I catch hold of something, down I go. I am afraid to walk out-of-doors for fear of falling. I am 75 years old and my blood pressure is 140. What can the trouble be?

REPLY.

Vertigo. This may be due to some circulatory disturbance within the ear or to certain changes in the balancing apparatus. Getting rid of excess water stored within the tissues may relieve the symptom. A saline cathartic will help and omitting salt from the diet is advised. Take little fluid after 4 or 5 p. m.

MIGRAINE.

W. writes: What is the cause of migraine? How is it treated?

REPLY.

The symptoms of migraine come on periodically. They resemble a nervous explosion, which may occur when one becomes overfatigued. The lady of the house gives a large reception. After it is over she may go to bed with a typical attack. A lawyer subjected to severe strain in the courtroom may exhibit the manifestation. Some metabolic upset—which in turn influences the nervous system—is probably responsible. Two quite different drugs have been found to be helpful—viz, ergotamine tartrate and chrondroitin. The patient should be isolated in a quiet room.

GLASSES DON'T RESTORE VISION.

A. A. M. writes: In one of your articles on myopia you said that this defect could be cured with proper lenses. Does this mean that glasses in time will restore perfect vision to the unaided eye?

REPLY.

No. It means that by the use of proper lenses vision may be brought to normal only while the glasses are worn. Spectacles constitute a mechanical aid.

DANGER IS SLIGHT.

E. W. writes: I have had quinsy sore throat twice. Will I be subject to hemorrhage following a tonsil operation?

REPLY.

While it is somewhat more difficult to remove tonsils which have been infected repeatedly, in competent hands the danger of hemorrhage is negligible.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY H. BASIL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TEHERAN, Iran [Persia.]—The marriage of Crown Prince Mohammed Riza Pahlevi of Iran and Princess Fawzieh, sister of King Farouk of Egypt, in May promises to be an important influence on the future history of Islam.

This wedding will link two ruling Mohammedan families, contrary to the time honored custom under which a king gave his daughters to men of importance in his own nation rather than to members of other royal families who might be expected to maintain harems. A subject son-in-law would not dare to take a second wife—openly at least.

Since both Crown Prince Riza and Princess Fawzieh have been reared largely under European surroundings—they met at Montreux, a fashionable vacation spot in Switzerland—Iran expects Riza will have but one queen when he succeeds his father, King Riza Khan, on the throne. Prince Riza was educated in Switzerland; Princess Fawzieh in England.

More important political considerations in the proposed wedding, however, result from the aim of King Farouk to become the caliph of Islam, formerly held by the sultans of Turkey. The late president Kemal Ataturk of Turkey abolished the caliphate in March, 1924, sixteen months after the grand national assembly had voted the sultan out of power.

Without the moral and political support of the king of Iran it was considered doubtful whether Farouk, who is now 18 years old, could succeed in his candidacy. Iran's king, being unrelated to the Egyptian king and being a Shiite by sect, would be expected to oppose the candidacy of Farouk, who is a Sunnite.

[The Sunnites are the orthodox, conservative, and by far the largest sect of Islam. They acknowledge the first four caliphs to have been the rightful successors of Mohammed. The Shiites, on the other hand, reject the first three caliphs and consider Ali, Mohammed's son-in-law, his first rightful successor and do not acknowledge the Sunna, or body of traditions respecting Mohammed, as any part of the law. Persia is the chief center of Shiism.]

With the royal marriage in the offing, however, King Riza Khan now is said to be in favor of the caliphate passing to King Farouk. Since the Iranian king, as a Shiite, is looked on as a schismatic he cannot aspire to this powerful religious position himself.

King Riza is expected to use his powerful influence in Afghanistan and among the scores of millions of Mohammedans in India to give their votes to Farouk. A similar influence would be used on millions of Chinese and Japanese Mohammedans—perhaps through the Japanese government—which would like to gain the support of the Mohammedan states for its slogan "Asia for the Asiatics."

The caliph of the Mohammedans is, in effect, their pope. His influence on European politics in bygone days was not small. A caliph who is at the same time the king of a rising and strong Mohammedan country could do much to keep together and in unison the other Mohammedan countries against a possible onslaught by other powers.

The marriage of the Shiite crown prince and the Sunnite princess is expected to be a long step toward putting an end to the centuries old strife, often bloody, between the two sects. Nadir Shah of Iran, who invaded India successfully in 1739, did his best to bring about a friendly spirit between them, but he failed because the power of the priests was too strong then. In Iran today a priest is not even spoken of.

DEFAULTED BONDS.

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a bondholder on an apartment building which is in default of interest since July, 1932, and principal since January, 1934. The building has been fully rented all this time, but [1] the trustee will not make an accounting to any of the bondholders.

2. Is there any way I can force him to make an accounting and also [3] make him give me the names of the other holders?

4. Would such a suit have to be filed in the Municipal or federal court and about [5] how much would it cost to start such suit? I am fully aware that I must employ an attorney.

6. How many dollars of bonds would have to be represented of a $15,000 issue to bring the trustee into court and have a federal receiver appointed under the new revised 77B federal bankruptcy act for reorganization of real estate?

7. Where may I obtain a copy of the above mentioned law? E. L.

1. If you mean a court appointed receiver, his obligation is to account to the court rather than to the bondholders. If you mean that the building has been put in the hands of a trustee without court proceedings, then the obligation of the trustee depends on the wording of the trust instrument.

2. See 1.

3. Ordinarily the only way to force this information is by proceedings under the provisions of the Chandler act, corresponding to section 77B of the former act.

4. The bankruptcy proceedings would be handled in the federal court.

5. The attorney's fee would be the largest item. Take the matter up with the attorney whom you would employ.

6. We are not in a position to say.

7. We suggest that you try the public library.

MORTGAGE RELEASE.

Chicago, March 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I hold a note secured by a mortgage on property in Idaho and complete payment has been made to me. Please inform me what documents must be furnished by me to release the mortgage. C. D. B.

The word "mortgage" is often used as a synonym for trust deed, which is the common instrument used in this locality. Assuming that you are using the word mortgage in its technical sense and that you yourself are the mortgagee, you should give a release deed. If you hold the abstract, insurance papers, etc., you should surrender them. We are unable to advise to advantage without having your facts more clearly before us.

AMERICA AND EUROPE'S WARS.

Evanston, Ill., March 3.—So we're going—God help us!—whether we like it or not, to Europe again, this time to save democracy for the world. Last time it was to make the world safe for democracy.

That is, we're going unless the American people pause and remember and protest to their congressmen that they do remember just what they got out of the last war.

What did America gain from the last war? What did Great Britain, France, and Italy gain? Can we again be sold that shopworn bill of goods?

The best service Americans can do is to stay at home and make America safe for American democracy by cleaning out foreign isms called by three names. To free people they had one meaning: Terrorism. ONCE BITTEN.

PESTS.

Lafayette, Ind., March 3.—The mere numbers of the starlings, if there were nothing else against them, would make them a menace, as they consume the food needed by our native and more timid birds. They take their nesting places and destroy their eggs and young. They build in holes entirely, preferably in martin houses, as they are colony birds, but any house will do which will admit them, so none but the house and Bewick wrens are exempt from their destruction. They, with the crows and blackbirds, all one family, are responsible more than any other one thing for the great decrease in our valuable native birds. Any species which outnumbers others 100 to 1 is dangerous, as there is not natural food enough for all, and starlings are alien, not native to America.

There are enough enemies of our native birds without importing them. Starlings are so hardy and prolific year round residents that, as Jack Miner, the noted bird authority of Guelph, Ont., has told us, nothing but mass destruction of them can restore our still rapidly decreasing bird life. Rats and mice are protected by no one. Snakes are given an almost universal death sentence. Starlings deserve and should have the same if our song and insectivorous birds are to survive.

MRS. CHARLES F. WEIGLE.

ALL IN THE DAY'S WORK.

Chicago, March 1.—I noticed in this morning's TRIBUNE the obituary of my cousin who is being buried tomorrow in Ottawa, Ill. I tried the telephone company to ascertain the phone number of this family but found out they were unable to give me this information. A certain Miss Earle in your office gave me the information I sought.

The information obtained was such that I feel it a duty to let you know how greatly this courtesy is appreciated.

Employés such as she certainly make your paper the asset to Chicago that it is.

M. B. ZIMMER.

FRESH AIR.

Chicago, March 2.—Would the Rapid Transit officials please order all conductors to open the ventilators? I ride the Lake street "L" and in the morning on an eight car express the air is rank by the time we reach the Lake street transfer if the ventilators are shut. The air is free. Can't we please have a little?

A DAILY RIDER.

AUTOMOBILE TAXES.

Chicago, March 1.—I read in this morning's TRIBUNE that they're trying to pass new laws to raise the taxes on automobiles again because they are in the red. Well, if they would have taken our gas tax and spent it to maintain the highways instead of using the money for relief then we would have more than enough now. V. MARTIN.

HE DOES.

Chicago, March 3.—I think a baby would have more sense than to get on the bottom of a "glider" and run full speed ahead over a cliff. I thought Zack Mosley knew something about planes. JAMES FRANKLIN O'MALLEY.

SWEDEN'S LIQUOR CONTROL.

Dubuque, Ia., March 1.—We cannot admit that there is no solution for the liquor problem in the United States. We have tried prohibition and have attempted regulation bordering on free trade. These have both proved inadequate. Sweden has discovered a method to really handle the situation.

The principle on which their method is based is "disinterested management," a management with no interests in profits or pushing sales. There is a general concentration of all manufacturing, selling, and importing in a limited dividend monopoly. The government regulates very closely both the wholesaling and retailing of the product. Each alcohol-consuming individual applies for a license, giving his age, occupation, capital, income, size of family, and record for sobriety. The annual consumption allotted to the person is based on the above information.

All liquor purchases are very carefully tabulated and if an individual exceeds his allowance measures are undertaken against him. As a last resort his license may be revoked. Revenue from the sale of alcoholic beverages is used in promoting temperance, compensating the cities and rural communities, the counties and the agricultural associations for relinquishing their claims upon this source of revenue, and for amortization of the national debt.

The important thing about this method is that it has really worked. Undoubtedly it could be carried out in the United States as easily as in Sweden. There is a crying need to rid our cities of questionable taverns and night clubs. If we must have drinking let us raise it to a higher, more refined plane. If we do not know how much we can safely hold or spend on such commodities, some one will have to tell us!

MARJORIE LEWIS,
University of Dubuque.

AFTER THE PRIMARY.

Chicago, March 1.—The primary is over. Kelly is Democratic candidate for mayor. Courtney goes back to work as state's attorney.

Mr. Courtney, during the campaign, made allegations as to the tie-up between crime and politics; he alleged fraud and theft on the part of certain officeholders. If he learned of this corruption during his campaign he had no time in which to indict any one. Now that the primary is over, he still is in possession of the facts and as state's attorney he can start indicting the guilty parties. If he does this and is successful in prosecuting and putting in jail even a few of them he can have anything within the power of the people of Chicago to give him. If he does not and aids in electing Kelly on April 4 he will be through politically.

What course do you think he will follow? Was he deceiving the people during the campaign, or will he prove to the people that they erred in not nominating him? D. J. M.

EMANUEL BLOCK OF INLAND STEEL DIES IN ARIZONA

Has Fatal Heart Attack on Golf Course.

Emanuel J. Block, vice president and a director of the Inland Steel company, died of a heart attack yesterday in Phoenix, Ariz., where he was spending the winter. Mr. Block, who was 57 years old, was stricken while playing golf.

Emanuel J. Block.

He joined the steel company in 1901. After progressing through various departments he was placed in charge of purchasing. Mr. Block was one of three brothers holding high positions in Inland Steel. Leopold E. Block is chairman of the board and Philip D. Block is president.

Emanuel Block was a member of the Lake Shore Country club, Mid-Day club, and Standard club. He was associated with a number of philanthropic enterprises and private charities. His home was at 4928 Greenwood avenue. He also had a farm near Wasco in Kane county.

In 1908 Mr. Block married Helen Mannheimer of Chicago. She died two years ago. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Henry Stein and Miss Helen R. Block, the two brothers, and four sisters; Mrs. Alice Berman, Mrs. Hannah Lehman, Mrs. Blanche Joseph, and Mrs. Cora Hart. Miss Block was with her father in Arizona.

Leopold and Philip Block were in Florida when notified of their brother's death. They are returning to Chicago to attend the funeral which will be held at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in the chapel at 936 East 47th street. Burial will be in Rosehill mausoleum.

HARRY BARTLOW, TRIBUNE LINOTYPE OPERATOR, DIES

Harry R. Bartlow, a linotype operator on THE TRIBUNE, died yesterday in the Evanston hospital. He was 46 years old and lived at 6441 North Hoyne avenue. Mr. Bartlow was born in Iowa. He joined the Tribune linotype force in 1932 after many years in Chicago commercial shops. He was active in affairs of the Chicago Typographical union, No. 16. Services for Mr. Bartlow will be held at 11 a. m. Wednesday in the chapel at 5501 North Ashland avenue under the auspices of Brotherhood lodge, No. 986, A. F. & A. M. MARY E. BOLLAND DIES; ASSOCIATE OF JANE ADDAMS

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Bolland, an early associate of the late Miss Jane Addams and a charter member of the Hull House Women's club, will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic church. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mrs. Bolland died Saturday night at the age of 82 years in her home at 632 Oakdale avenue.

She served as secretary of the Hull House Women's club during the presidency of Mrs. Joseph Bowen. Still later she was treasurer.

Mrs. Bolland was born in Clinton street, near Adams street, a daughter of Isaac Stedman, a pioneer lake captain. The family moved to a house in Forquer [now Arthington] street, near Halsted street, soon afterward. This house escaped the Chicago fire although only a few blocks from its origin. Mrs. Bolland lived there nearly seventy years, moving to the north side ten years ago. Two nieces and a nephew survive.

MRS. J. W. COOK'S FUNERAL WILL BE THIS AFTERNOON

Funeral services for Mrs. John W. Cook will be held today at 2:30 p. m. in the chapel of the First Unitarian church, Woodlawn avenue and 57th street. Mrs. Cook died Friday in the home of her son-in-law Dean Henry Gordon Gale of the University of Chicago at 5646 Kimbark avenue She was 93 years old.

Mrs. Cook was the widow of Dr. John W. Cook, the first president of the Northern Illinois State Teachers college at De Kalb. Her brother-in-law was Gen. Charles E. Hovey, the first president of the Illinois State Normal college, who organized a civil war regiment at Normal. She was an aunt of the poet, the late Richard Hovey. Mrs. Cook was born at North Andover, Mass., and had lived in Illinois since 1861.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

by Frank Ridgway

Boost AAA Payments

March 5, 1939.

MAXIMUM federal payments are to be greatly increased this year where farmers comply with the Agricultural Adjustment administration's 1939 crop control program. They are being advised several weeks in advance of planting time that the government is offering an assortment of bonuses, special payments and other remunerative features to coöperating producers.

For example, Clarence Thurow and Louis Thurow Jr. are offered nearly $1,000 more this year than they were paid last year for complying with the AAA plan on a 1,332 acre farm near Yorkville. The Thurows have just received a check for $1,799.80 for operating the farm according to government regulations in 1938. This amount was paid after $178.01 was deducted to cover expenses of AAA officials in administering the program for one year on this particular farm. The maximum AAA offer for this year totals $2,777.38. Administration expenses will be deducted from this amount in arriving at the total payment.

Offer New Payments.

Several new kinds of payments will be offered this year. Below is a summary of the different classes of payments for 1938 and 1939.

Payments.	1938.	1939.
Corn bonus	$1,196.79	$1,139.73
Corn price adjustment	none	760.95
Wheat bonus	none	136.32
Wheat price adjustment	none	88.28
General	531.81	400.15
For approved crops and practices	249.21	173.70
Non crop open pasture	none	78.25
Total	$1,977.81	$2,777.38

Administration expenses amounting to 9 per cent of the total payments for 1938 were deducted from the total of $1,977.81, leaving $1,799.80, or $1.35 an acre on the entire farm. The $2,777.38 maximum offered for this year's compliance amounts to $2.08 an acre. The amount to be deducted from this total for administration expenses will not be known until the end of the year.

Under the 1939 AAA program the Thurows' share of the national, state, county and township allotments is 641.6 acres for the growing of such crops as corn and wheat. There are 989 acres of cropping land in the 1,332 acres.

Bonus for 80% Planting.

To qualify for full payments this year the Thurows are not allowed to raise more than 338.2 acres of corn and 38.4 acres of wheat. If they plant at least 80 per cent of these allotments they will be paid special bonuses and price adjustment payments on both crops.

The corn bonus of 9 cents a bushel will be paid on the allotted 338.2 acres with an average yield of 37.5 bushels per acre, or $1,139.73. The wheat bonus of 17 cents a bushel will be paid on the allotted 38.4 acres with an average yield of 20.9 bushels per acre, or $136.32.

On the same acreage and yield basis the government offers "price adjustment" payments of 6 cents a bushel on corn, or $760.95, and 11 cents a bushel on wheat, or $88.28.

Explain Other Bounties.

The general payment of $400.15 is to be made at the rate of $1.51 an acre on 265 acres of land left in the grain growing acreage allotment after allowance has been made for corn and wheat.

A payment totaling $173.70 is offered for growing such approved crops as clovers and alfalfa, and for applying limestone, phosphate, and following other approved soil management practices. This payment is made at the rate of 50 cents an acre on 347.4 acres of cropping land left after deducting for allotments of acres to be used in growing such crops as corn and wheat.

A new type of payment is offered this year on 313 acres of non-crop open pasture land at the rate of 25 cents an acre, or $78.25.

Edgings Give Great Chic to Spring Outfits

BY RHEA SEEGER.

A white line this spring is the shortest difference between a costume that is just ordinary and an ensemble with great chic. This telling trickery is done with the so-called lingerie whiffs of white. First there is the clever, effective eyelet embroidery edging. It comes in half inch and inch and a half widths, ready to be sewed into a neckline, around the cuffs for the narrow frills, and around and under the hemline, so that it shows, for the wider.

Spanking white, baby blue, and pink are the three new colors. Also new is the two inch wide bias cut double band piqué, in the same colors, ready to tie into a decorative bow to pin on the shoulder of a suit or dress.

See the double fluted edging of fine piqué in white or pale gold or the exquisitely lovely embroidered organdy in deep scallops. All this comes by the yard or portion of a yard ready for the sewing genius, ready as telling trivia to remake a dress.

Other petticoat frilling comes in dainty fluted edgings featuring fagoting in fine lawn with a fine lace edge. Narrower finds come with bright blue or scarlet edges to pick out the snowy white of the sheer material itself.

Tucked ruffling with insertion of lace matches the lace edge. This is deep, almost six inches in width. Smooth white piqué comes by the yard in what is called tab arrangement, making eye-catching collars. The double edged bandings in sheer embroidered organdy with the simpler sheers make extraordinary accents for the square cut neckline.

Kiepura Songs and Smiles Win Huge Audience

BY CECIL SMITH.

Wearing the year's most dental smile, Jan Kiepura, the most determined glamor boy among contemporary operatic tenors, sang and oozed personality before an enormous audience in the Civic Opera house last night. His loyal Polish compatriots were there in full force, quick to applaud the unsurpassed beauty of his voice, and good humoredly tolerant of the unbridled kittenishness of his stage deportment.

The recital was, all in all, the most grotesque major event of the musical season. I do not know how much of a restraining influence the Metropolitan Opera house may have upon the extreme artistic license that marked everything he sang last night. As a concert artist, he achieves that particularly disquieting effect that comes from hearing a voice of first rank put to wholly unseemly use.

With his wonderful voice and schooling he can do anything he likes. Unfortunately he prefers to twist and torture phrases into a putty and to hold in scorn the value of a regular rhythmic pulse. He loves a long spun pianissimo at no matter how illogical a spot. Last night he sang nearly all the arias of the standard répertoire [or so it seemed], and they all sounded equally beautiful as tone and equally unreasonable as music.

Bettina Bjorksten, lyric soprano, making her Chicago debut at the Beaux Arts salon in the Medinah club, proved to be an unusually delightful artist, with solid European training and experience behind her. "L'Amero, Saro Costante" from "Il Re Pastore," one of the most exquisite Mozart arias, showed that she had the true Mozartean feeling for fluent line, aristocratic phrasing and well defined accentuation. But unless she finds a way to make her voice brighter she will probably not enjoy all the public success she deserves. Irving Ilmer, 19 year old violinist, played the Vitali Chaconne with sweep and vigor, and needs only greater polish before he is ready to step out into the professional world.

At Orchestra hall the Chicago Symphonic choir, Walter Aschenbrenner, director, sang with great pliability and a more robust tone than heretofore. The group confines itself almost wholly to transcriptions and makes the music fit the choir instead of requiring the choir to fit the music.

Two immature singers—Alexander Kulpak, bass, and Margaret Willem, soprano, shared a program at the Woman's Club theater. Both have voices that are basically good. Miss Willem's singing is rather trembly and often pinched. Mr. Kulpak covers his voice so much that his diction is distorted and his tone is clothy and dull.

Giovanni Polifronio's annual violin recital in Kimball hall displayed essentially the same profound defects of intonation, technique, and musicianship as have been noted in other years.

Archipenko to Exhibit Statue of Moses Today

A powerful figure of Moses, Alexander Archipenko's latest work, will be on display today and throughout March at the Katherine Kuh galleries, 540 North Michigan avenue. The statue, executed in a new, light plastic, has been modeled along somewhat realistic lines, a departure from the abstract technique the sculptor founded in France a quarter of a century ago. Archipenko, who lives in New York, is of Ukrainian descent.

Partial Autograph.

Shirley Anderson, sophomore at St. Xavier college on Cottage Grove avenue, is the proud possessor of a partial autograph of the man who now is Pope Pius XII. She was at the municipal airport in 1936 when Cardinal Eugenio Pacelli arrived for his memorable visit to Chicago. She wanted his autograph, and when a friendly policeman pointed out the car reserved for his eminence, she dashed toward it, slipping through the crowd, pushing through the newspaper men and the clergy. Reaching the car just as the cardinal was about to drive off, she thrust her fountain pen and a slip of paper through the window with a breathless "Please sign your name, your eminence."

Cardinal Pacelli began to write, but the pen failed to function properly, and the hand that now wears the fisherman's ring was covered with ink. But Miss Anderson has the slip which reads only Eug. . . .

Political Atmosphere.

The political atmosphere of Springfield affects even small boys. Anne Armstrong Lees bulletins that she heard a newsie in the shadow of the statehouse cry startlingly:

"Extra! Read all about the reelection of the pope!"

Service With a Smile?

Have you heard about the inebriate who walked into a store on Howard street and ordered a pound of Spanish peanuts and a pound of potato chips? After they had been weighed he demanded they be mixed together, according to Dotty Duvell, who tells the story. The clerk obliged and asked for the 40 cents due. The customer confessed he was broke. So the clerk had to pick the peanuts out of the potato chips.

Luxury Note.

A woman in Lake Forest has a large greenhouse, but has to order flowers from the florist, like many owners of greenhouses. The florist keeps seventy-two vases filled in her Lake Forest home. When she comes to her town apartment, even for a night, he sends flowers there. It takes thirty-five dozen posies to make a showing.

Junior League Juvenile Play Opens March 18

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE whole cast of the Chicago Junior League Children's theater play, "The Indian Captive," hasn't been together yet for a rehersal. Despite this handicap, however, the theater season will open on March 18 with a preview at the Winnetka Community house.

Influenza has hindered the troupers ever since rehersals started several weeks ago. Last week the theater chairman, Mrs. Sherwood Platt, fell victim to the disease. This blow was a cruel one, for, as Elinor Lytell, Mrs. Platt was to play an important rôle.

The current season is to be a sort of experimental project, entirely different from the league's usual six or eight weeks' engagement at a loop theater. Aside from the preview in Winnetka, and possibly one downtown performance before a paying audience, "The Indian Captive" will be shown only at public schools, one in each of the eight Chicago districts.

The play, written and directed by Mrs. Charlotte Chorpenning, was chosen by the public schools to fit in with courses in American history. Telling a story of early Chicago, it will be presented in various schools on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays through April 5. A public performance is planned for the morning of April 8.

Full Membership of Cast Announced.

The cast, unless further revised by sickness, will be the following: Thomas Lytell, Mrs. Cyrus Edmonds; Mrs. Lytell, Mrs. William Peacock Jr.; the old queen, Mrs. Richard Gambrill Jr.; Cornplanter, Mrs. John A. Kovas; Falling Leaves, Mrs. George Leonard; Many Bears, Mrs. John L. Irving; Eagle Feather, Miss Cynthia Cleveland; Redbill, Miss Jane Cummings; and Shining Leaves, Miss Dorothy MacArthur.

Mrs. Gambrill's appearance in the play is due to the persistence of the theater department, which felt it couldn't give a play without her. Last year Mrs. Gambrill said that she was finished with appearing in plays now that she has a grown daughter. That daughter, by the way, Miss Helen Gambrill, is following closely in her talented mother's footsteps. A student at Smith college, she is the author of a song, "My Heart's in Cellophane," which will make its debut over the air waves tonight, played by an orchestra at the Palmer House. Miss Gambrill made her debut last fall.

Mrs. Harold Glenn Production Manager.

Mrs. Harold Glenn is production manager for "The Indian Captive." On her staf are Mrs. Herbert Nock, stage manager; Mrs. Francis R. Stanton, scenery; Miss Anne Burnham, properties; Miss Barbara Hess, costumes; lighting, Mrs. William Wieboldt, and business manager, Miss Margaret Wilder. Miss Cummings is doubling as assistant stage manager.

In order to take part in the play Mrs. Kovas gave up a trip to Palm Beach, Fla., to act as bridesmaid for Miss Veronese Beatty at her wedding Saturday to Melville C. Branch Jr.

Mrs. Roland K. Smith left Saturday for Portland, Ore., to attend a theater conference of the Association of Junior Leagues of America. The con-

Looking at Hollywood by Ed Sullivan

BY CLARK GABLE.

Hollywood, Cal., March 5.—The exciting moments in anybody's life are likely to be dull reading for the other fellow. That's because the important things, those that count and are longest remembered, would seem ordinary if they hadn't happened to you.

Let's get down to cases. The day I landed in Akron, O., was a terrific wallop. Look at it from any angle. A punk kid from the country in the big city. Since then I've seen New York, Mexico City, Buenos Aires. I've seen 'em all first class. Of them all Akron was the greatest eye opener, the most exciting. The night I sat in the balcony of the Akron Music hall was another. You can have your Broadway hits and Hollywood premières. None of them compare with the Ed Clark-Lilly Stock players' performance in "The Bird of Paradise." My first show. There never was a moment more exciting. I was hooked. I knew it. For me it was show business or bust.

Years later I was handed an Oscar, the Academy award. That was a kick. But it didn't hold a candle to the excitement of hitting the manager of that Akron outfit for a job, and getting it. "We can use a call boy," he said. "No pay, but you can learn while you work." Strictly happy days, those. I was back stage and loved it. Folding money is nice to have. But life can be just as exciting when you haven't got it. I found that out. The way I figure it, all the money in the mint isn't worth it if you are unhappy making it. I've been lucky. I picked the kind of work that has been the most exciting and happiest for me. When the folding money came, it was swell, too. But with or without it, I never had a complaint.

The two years I spent in the Oklahoma oil fields have been played up as a colorful episode. Take it from me, I was never unhappier, 16 and making twelve bucks a week. That was at Bigheart and I went there because my father wanted me to. He believes in hard work for good pay. I had one idea, the stage. The only exciting moment I recall in connection with Bigheart was the day I left for Kansas City to join the Jewel players. The time I spent in the oil fields has been a rehersal to play tough rôles. For being tough on the stage I collected $10 every Saturday night until the company's collapse in Butte, Mont.

Exciting? Sure it was exciting. I had found my niche and nothing else mattered. It never has. I hopped a freight to Bend, Ore., and worked there for the Brooks Hanlon Lumber company until I had saved enough money to get me to Portland. I sold neckties in the men's department of the Meier & Frank department store, traveled on milk boats with a coöperative stock company for a top check of $10 a week and a low of $1.30, drove a team of mules in the hop fields, cut brush ahead of a construction gang and saved for another crack at the stage.

It took a long time for Hollywood to be exciting. I arrived in 1925. A bit in "The Great Diamond Robbery" was the best I could do. Extra parts and $7.50 was the limit. New York became my goal. I got there by way of carrying a spear in a Jane Cowl production of "Romeo and Juliet," "What Price Glory," "Chicago," and a stock engagement in Houston, Tex. With money in my pocket, I headed for Broadway. I lived at a hotel in the Times square district that never saw sunlight, but it was great stuff. The most exciting moment of that period was talking Arthur Hopkins into a part. The play was "Machinal."

I returned to Los Angeles for a summer engagement as Killer Mears in "The Last Mile." That brought movie offers and a rôle in "The Painted Desert." The only exciting moment was learning to ride a horse. I said I could to get the part, but hadn't been on a nag since I was a kid. Ed, you know the rest, how I got my first big break in "Dancing Daughters." To me these things have been the highlights. It was exciting trying to crash the gates. It has been just as exciting trying to keep a toehold on success. One thing I have learned, whether a guy is a failure or a success, he's happiest doing the thing he wants to do. In either case he's sure to find excitement if he keeps punching.

I suppose that I should include another picture that will go down in my memory. It was a picture called "No Man of Her Own." I played opposite a girl named Carole Lombard. I read in your column the other day that we shortly will be married. Maybe they're right when they say that this is a funny old world, huh?

All Day Performance Added to Bloomington Passion Play Season

Bloomington, Ill., March 5.—[Special.]—A special performance on Sunday, May 14, will feature the sixteenth annual season of the American Passion Play, which opens here April 16 and concludes May 20. Beginning at 9:30 a. m. the special performance will continue until noon and then be resumed at 2 p. m., concluding at 5 p. m.

Two hours will be taken at noon for luncheon and those attending will be given an opportunity to meet the cast of 300, visit the stage and dressing rooms, and to learn about the mechanics and technical work of the play.

The Blind Side

By Patricia Wentworth

[Copyright: 1939: By Patricia Wentworth Turnbull.]

SYNOPSIS.

Ross Craddock's father, now dead, turned Craddock House into flats and had installed his old maid cousins, Mary and Lucy Craddock, in a flat apiece, on either side of the one occupied by Ross. After Mary's death Lucy prepares to leave for a change of scene. Their cousin, Peter Renshaw, is staying in Mary's flat while he settles her estate. A cruel note from Ross orders Lucy to vacate her flat. Confronting Ross she learns it is because she objects to his attentions to her foolish young niece, Mavis Grey. Lucy tells Peter she wishes Ross were dead. He advises her to take the trip she'd planned. Just as she is leaving Lucy gets a phone call from her cousin, Lee Fenton. Lee, who is in love with Peter, has just escaped an unpleasant experience with a married man. Lucy gives Lee the keys to use her flat while she is away. Rush, the porter, admits Lee. He mutters belligerently against Ross. After Rush, Lee has a time dismissing Mrs. Green, the charwoman, who says she is ill and needs a drink of brandy. That evening Peter prevents Bobby Foster, Mavis' suitor, from making a scene in a cabaret where Mavis is with Ross. Peter is awakened in the night by a crash. He sees Mavis running from Ross' flat and Ross cut and bleeding. Mavis had thrown a decanter at him.

INSTALMENT VII.

THE MOTH AND THE FLAME.

Mavis leaned forward and said: "I wouldn't have come here tonight if I'd known Aunt Lucy had gone—O, Peter, I really wouldn't. Ross said she'd put off going—something to do with business. And he said it was so late, why not come back here and get her to put me up? Because the Greys do fuss most frightfully if I'm not in before twelve. And I didn't know she'd gone till I got here, and then he said he'd made a mistake."

"It's the sort of mistake he'd be likely to make—isn't it?"

Mavis looked puzzled.

"I don't see how he could. Do you? Not really. I mean he couldn't have thought she had put off going unless she had told him so herself—I mean there couldn't have been any mistake. And anyhow every one always knows everything that's going on in these flats."

Peter looked piously at the ceiling.

"Let's hope, my dear, that every one doesn't know what's been going on tonight."

"O!" said Mavis in a shocked breath. And then, hopefully, "But they're nearly all away, aren't they?"

"Miss Bingham came back last night, and she's the worst of the lot."

"She told Aunt Lucy I wanted watching," said Mavis, with a faint hysterical giggle.

"And I'm sure she'd have been most happy to oblige."

She shivered and sat up.

"What had I better do?"

"Let me take you home, I imagine."

She looked over her shoulder at the clock.

"O, Peter—is that right?"

"Absolutely. It's a quarter to two."

"Then I can't possibly go home. You don't know what they're like. Aunt Gladys is bad enough, but Uncle Ernest is ten times worse. I mean, Aunt Lucy's a fuss, but she simply isn't in it with the Grey relations."

"All the same I think you will have to go home."

"Peter, I can't—honest. You see, they don't approve of Ross, and they've forbidden me to go out with him, and—well, they think I was at a party at Hampstead with Bobby Foster—his sister Isabel's party—and I rang up from the Ducks and Drakes and said Isabel was keeping me for the night, so you see I simply can't go home."

With rage in his heart Peter saw. He mastered a desire to shake her and said, "Are you going to tell me what happened? You needn't if you don't want to, but I think you'd better."

Mavis brightened. Now that she wasn't frightened any more there was something exciting about having had such an adventure. And she had always liked Peter much better than Peter had seemed to like her. Perhaps this was an opportunity. She found a little scrap of a handkerchief and dabbed her eyes with it.

"Well, I really was going to Isabel's party with Bobby, so I didn't tell a lie about that. But then we quarreled——"

"You and Bobby, or you and Isabel?"

"O, Bobby, of course—about Ross. You know, Peter, it's frightfully stupid of people to go on warning you about some one. Every one has been warning me about Ross for months—Aunt Gladys, and Uncle Ernest, and Aunt Mary, and Aunt Lucy. You know—all the sort of people you can't have rows with.

"So when Bobby started in I just let him have it. I'd got it all saved up, and out it came. And then, of course, I couldn't go to the party with him—could I? So I rang Ross up. Every time any of the aunts do any of their awful warnings I always ring him up—it just makes me feel I must. So I told Bobby I wasn't ever going to speak to him again, and I met Ross at the end of the road. When we got there he said, 'Come in and have a drink,' and I said it was too late, but he said O, he'd just remembered that Lucy wasn't here after all. And I said, 'Do you mean the flat is empty?' and he said 'Yes,' and a lot about being awfully sorry and all that—and, Peter, I thought he really was. And when he said I must come in and talk about what would be the best thing to do, I never thought—honest, Peter, I never thought about there being anything wrong."

"You'd better go on with chapter three."

Peter could see Mavis warming to it. Her color had come back, and her eyes had brightened.

"We went into the sitting room, and there was a decanter and glasses on the table, and I said I wouldn't have anything more, and he said I must, so he got a bottle of champagne and poured out a glass for me and a glass for him, but I really only sipped it. And then he began to make love to me, and at first I liked it, and then I didn't. And then he got rough, and my dress got torn and I got awfully frightened, and I picked up the decanter and hit him with it as hard as I could, and the table went over and everything broke."

"I heard it. Continue."

Mavis shuddered enjoyably.

"O, Peter, I thought I'd killed him. He went right down, and he groaned."

"Dead men don't groan."

"O, no, he wasn't dead. I only thought he was. I felt absolutely frozen, but when he began to get up I ran away—and O, Peter, you can't think how glad I was to see you!"

"The pleasure was far from mutual," said Peter in his most disagreeable voice. "Mavis, you really are an absolutely prize champion idiot. Anybody could have told you what Ross was like."

"They did tell me," said Mavis tearfully. "That's why I did it."

"That's why I said you were a prize champion idiot. Now sit up and pay attention and listen. You'll have to stay here tonight." "I don't think I can sleep," said Mavis.

"Well, I can," said Peter. "So off you go!" Mavis said, "O!" She looked mournfully at her torn dress. "It's quite spoilt and some of the champagne dripped on it. But I'm glad I didn't kill him. Would it have been murder if I had?"

Peter gave a short enraged laugh.

"If you don't want to be murdered yourself, go to bed and stay there! You'll have to be up again at six or so."

"Why?"

"Do you want Miss Bingham to see you, or Rush, or that dreep of a charwoman? . . . No? Then you'll have to get up bright and early to avoid them."

Mavis trailed her torn dress through the doorway between the sitting room and the bedroom. She said, "I think you're very unkind," and ended on a sob and banged the door.

Peter arranged his pile of cushions, switched out the light, and went to sleep. The last thing he heard was the clock striking two.

It was his habit to sleep deeply and dreamlessly until somebody waked him—and it took a bit of doing—or an alarm clock went off in his ear. The alarm clock was in the bedroom, and it would go off in Mavis' ear at six o'clock, because he had intended to go out and swim before breakfast. And at six o'clock of an August morning it was broad daylight. So when he waked up a second time in the dark he felt very much annoyed. Not a single gleam of light came through the two open and uncurtained windows.

A torte is a cake which contains a great many eggs and is rich and sweet. Beyond that it can't readily be defined. The tortes in this column are of four different kinds, but all are rich and delicious desserts.

Strawberry Blitz Torte.
[2 9 inch layers.]

½ cup butter, margarine or vegetable shortening
½ cup sugar
4 unbeaten egg yolks
1½ cups sifted cake flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
5 tablespoons milk
4 egg whites
1 cup sugar
1 quart sweetened strawberries

Cream shortening and sugar together very thoroughly. Add yolks, one at a time, beating well after each. Alternately add sifted flour and baking powder and milk, beating batter smooth after each addition. Spread in two greased and wax paper lined 9 inch pans. Beat egg whites until foamy throughout. Add the cup of sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time. Beat until sugar is blended and the meringue will stand in peaks. Spread half on each layer of cake batter. Bake at 325 degrees, slow oven, for 25 minutes. Increase heat to moderate, 350 degrees, and bake 30 minutes longer. When ready to serve, put layers together with strawberries, and top with more berries and whipped cream. Cut in pie-shaped pieces.

Brazil Nut Torte.
[3 8-inch layers.]

2 cups ground Brazil nuts
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
6 eggs, beaten separately

Mix Brazil nuts, sugar and salt. Beat egg yolks until foamy, add nut and sugar mixture, and beat very thoroughly until light. Fold in the egg whites, which have been beaten until stiff. Bake in three greased 8-inch round layer pans, lined with wax paper, for 30 minutes, at 350 degrees. Put layers together with whipped cream, or serve singly, frosted with boiled icing, and cut in wedges.

Cherry Torte.

2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar
½ teaspoon cinnamon
Grated rind of 1 lemon
2 teaspoons lemon juice
1 cup fine, dry rye bread crums
2 cups drained, canned sour cherries
Whipped cream

Beat egg yolks until light, add sugar, and beat until creamy. Add cinnamon, lemon rind and juice, then bread crums. Fold in egg whites, beaten until stiff, and cherries and almonds. Pour into a large, well greased spring form pan, sprinkle with more confectioners' sugar, and chopped almonds, and bake in a 325 degree oven for about an hour. Cool, remove from pan, and serve with sweetened whipped cream.

Cottage Cheese Torte.
[Serves six.]

1 cup sugar
1 teaspoon cinnamon
4 eggs
1 cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
Juice and grated rind of ½ lemon
1 cup cream
1½ pounds cottage cheese
¼ cup flour
¼ cup chopped nuts

Mix crums, sugar, cinnamon, and melted butter. Reserve ¾ cup of this mixture to sprinkle over the top of the cake. Butter a 9 inch mold and spread the rest of the mixture over the bottom and sides. Beat eggs and sugar until light. Add salt, lemon juice, and rind. Add cream, cheese, and flour mixture. Beat well and strain through a sieve. Stir and pour into the lined mold. Sprinkle with the reserved crum mixture. Top with nuts. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for an hour. Turn off oven heat and let the torte cool in the oven.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

No two ways about it, Blondie Bumstead, her young husband, Dagwood, and their small son, Baby Dumpling, are an engaging trio!

"Blondie Meets the Boss," second film of the series, is pleasant all family fare like, yet very different from the domestic comedies you have known. It has comedy of a naïve but amusing brand, doesn't hesitate to lean on trick photography when that crutch is needed and, every now and then gives a most surprising yank at your heartstrings.

When Dagwood, peeved—and you won't blame him for his "mad"—quits his job, Blondie hotfoots downtown to coax it back for him. The boss hands it to her instead. . . . Meantime the wretched Dagwood has gone fishing with a neighbor and, innocently and unwittingly, been snapped in juxtaposition with a snappy looking lady of the night clubs.

Penny Singleton and Arthur Lake are naturals as the Bumsteads. Little Larry Simms is a lamb as their baby! Funny, serious little tyke who speaks his lines better than the average child of twice his age would do! The three of them seem made for each other. Other players are what the story needed.

The Housewife

Constance Spry, noted English authority on flower arrangements, likes to place little clusters of tiny roses or other small flowers inside an artistic Mexican lantern made of silver-like tin. Lanterns similar to the ones which caught her eye are available here and are not too expensive. You hang them on the wall and if the flower idea doesn't appeal to you, put plain white candles in them. Or, if the holder for the candle is low enough, you can place a graceful white figurine in the lantern, making a little shrine of it.

Crochet Edgings Lend Elegance to Fine Bed Linens

BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A definite air of elegance prevails when one sleeps on fine white linen with delicate crochet edgings along the border of the sheets and on the edges of the pillow cases. These crocheted edgings are not difficult to create, and may be attached to ready made sheets and pillow slips, or the sheeting by the yard may be purchased and one can determine the exact size of the sheet and pillow slip desired.

For instructions for crocheting the edgings for the sheet and pillow case, No. X-213, send 10 cents in stamps or coin to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 5th avenue, New York City.

Suit Time Is Blouse Time

WOMAN'S AND MISS' BLOUSES.

Springtime is suit time, and suit time is blouse time, so, in keeping with the tempo of fashion, we're presenting two patterns today which will, we are sure, fill your blouse needs to perfection.

Sketched at the top are two versions of one pattern. Both are dressy and feminine and are delightful accents to relieve the severity of the new suits. This is a year for femininity. Even the most tailored clothes must incorporate daintiness somehow, and these blouses are every inch feminine. They are trimmed with lace or ruffling, and one of them has a tiered jabot to match the collar. Sheers are the best mediums for these two versions of pattern No. 3022.

Strictly shirtwaist lines are employed in the two sketched versions of pattern No. 3036. The collar may be buttoned up to the throat, or the neckline may be left casually open, as shown in the illustration at the left. Either silks or cottons make up well in this pattern, which is ideal for sports and suits of almost every type. If you like, give the blouse a monogram. This is especially appropriate when the blouse is made in a plain color. The pattern for a very attractive monogram is No. E-11012, available for 10 cents extra.

Style No. 3022 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

Style No. 3036 is designed for sizes 14, 16, 18, and 20, and 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measurement.

Address orders for Clotilde patterns to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY, inclosing 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred—wrap it carefully) for each pattern ordered. IMPORTANT! Be certain to state clearly the number of the pattern and the size desired, and write your name and address plainly.

The sprightly spring edition of the Chicago Tribune Book of Clotilde Fashions is on sale at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower, for 15 cents the copy. 10 cents if ordered with a pattern. Address mail orders to Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Station, NEW YORK CITY.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1939: By Ely Culbertson.]

A good partnership cannot contain one member who ducks all responsibility and decision, pushing these matters into the other member's lap. After all, the nature of the player's hand at a given time is the thing that determines the pro tem "captaincy." It often is very much easier for the weaker [temperamentally speaking] partner to make the final choice of contracts. This applies particularly when there must be a choice of doubling the opponents or going on to a higher level.

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 spade	2 clubs	2 hearts	Pass
3 hearts	4 clubs	4 hearts	5 clubs
Pass	Pass	Double	Pass
Pass	Pass

The five club contract was defeated two tricks because South had the inspiration to open a trump and thus made it impossible for East to hold his diamond loss to one trick. When North later gained the lead he followed his partner's direction by returning a second trump, hence East could ruff only one diamond. The 300 points scored by North-South, however, were highly inadequate compensation for the game of which they had been robbed.

It was North's fault that the opponents played the hand at five clubs doubled, instead of South at five hearts, which would have been a lay-down under proper play. Let us analyze each step of the bidding. North's spade bid was, of course, correct, but on the second round, after his partner had overcalled two clubs with the free bid of two hearts, North had plenty of values for a jump to four hearts. His conservative single raise, however, would not have been fatal if he had taken the proper action on his next turn. Actually South stretched a little when he rebid his hand freely over East's four clubs, but this should have worked out advantageously. Surely North should have known that South could not have less than he actually held, hence when West made what was obviously a sacrifice attempt at five clubs North should not have stood aside with a forcing pass and left it to his partner. He, North, had underbid previously and his partner had made two free bids, one of them at the four level. Surely, with the additional undisclosed strength in the North hand, there should be no great difficulty about making five-odd.

The forcing pass left South in a very difficult position. Naturally he could not count on holding his loss to two tricks. He expected North to have something like the A-K of spades and the A-J-x or even the A-J-10 of hearts, but this combination would give a very doubtful play for five-odd. His decision to double cannot be criticized. The fact of the matter is that the choice should not have been put up to him.

ference opened yesterday and will continue through Friday.

Mrs. Herbert E. Hyde and her elder daughter, Miss Betty Cole, have cards out for three fireside teas this month at their home, 112 Church road, Winnetka. They will receive from 3 to 6 o'clock on March 9, 16, and 23.

Fashion Group to Give Spring Show April 4.

The Fashion Group of Chicago, which is composed of about sixty women engaged in every aspect of fashion, will give its second annual spring fashion show on April 4. It will be given in the ballroom of the Drake, the same place in which the group staged its original and successful show last spring. Mrs. Marshall Sampsell, Mrs. Marjorie Letts, and Miss Lois Barnes are among those on the large committee planning the affair. Tickets go on sale March 15 and may be ordered by telephoning Franklin 1109.

Mrs. D. Mark Cummings, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Munson, and his daughters, Miss Frances and Miss Marion Munson, sailed from New York last Friday on a West Indies cruise. They will spend a few days in Jamaica before returning in April.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul B. Magnuson are on a short Mediterranean cruise, with Mrs. T. Albert Potter and Mrs. Donald F. McPherson among their fellow passengers.

Mrs. Ambrose Cramer Goes South Tomorrow.

Mrs. Ambrose Cramer is leaving tomorrow for Florida to spend four or five weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, the Corwith Cramers, on the west coast. Mrs. Ambrose Cramer's daughter, Mrs. Donald M. Ryerson, is enjoying a few weeks of hunting in Virginia and will go south later to join the family.

Mrs. F. Donald Bateman and her little daughter have left for Florida to spend two months with her parents, the H. Stillson Harts, at their Palm Beach home.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. Adams have left to spend two weeks at Belleair, Fla., where Mrs. John C. Stuart also is holidaying. The Belleair Country club No. 1 golf course will be the setting for a women's championship golf tournament starting today and continuing through Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Bulger, who recently returned from Palm Beach, have ideas of building there. In addition to golfing and fishing, the Bulgers spent some of their leisure time looking at ocean front property in and around Palm Beach.

Dartmouth Alumni Banquet Thursday.

The Dartmouth Alumni association of Chicago will hold its annual banquet Thursday night at the Blackstone, a date that has been set for Dartmouth parties throughout the country, and by undergraduates at the college. The program at the college party will be broadcast. Among the speakers will be Bill McCloud of Chicago, last year's football captain.

In charge of arrangements for the Chicago party are John Goodwillie and William S. Embree. Guests from Dartmouth will be Lloyd K. Neidlinger, dean of men, and Earl Blaik, football coach.

The infant son born on Feb. 28 at the Passavant hospital to Mr. and Mrs. George Warren Rust has been named for his father. Mrs. Rust is the former Alce Ann Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin H. Clark of Winnetka. Mr. Rust, a geologist in Cuerro de Pasco, Peru, will not see his son until Mrs. Rust and the baby go south in June.

Mr. and Mrs. John Clay are planning a trip to Florida for later this month. They will go south about March 20. Their sons, John Jr., who is at St. Mark's, and Billy, who attends the Boys' Latin school, will spend their spring vacations with their parents. The Clays will take them in their cruiser on a three weeks' trip to Cat Cay.

Mrs. Phelps B. Hoyt is leaving tomorrow for Hobe Sound, Fla.

Junior W. Irving Osbornes Go to Florida March 17.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Irving Osborne Jr. are leaving on March 17 to visit Mrs. Osborne's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Watson Armour, at Boca Grande, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, who are vacationing in Bermuda, will return home on March 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Trevor A. Cushman Jr. [Rosemary Sauer], who recently were married in New York, are deferring their wedding trip until June, when they will visit the Soda Springs ranch at Rimrock, Ariz., where they first met three years ago.

Mrs. Hubert Burnham, Mrs. Samuel Burrows, Mrs. George Wilkinson, and Mrs. Oliver D. Grover will pour tea after a lecture the Rev. James J. Mertz, S. J., will give at a meeting of the Italy America society at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Lake Shore drive apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Cummings. Father Mertz, who is chairman of the classical department at Loyola, will speak on "The Development of Roman Garments into Ecclesiastical Vestments."

Eva J. Ross will speak on "Belgian Rural Coöperatives — A Catholic Achievement" at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon at the Lake Shore Drive hotel. Her lecture is one in a series sponsored by the Chapel Guild of the Cenacle.

Here Are Tips to Groom You for Job Hunt

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1939: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

A chart prepared by the Transcription Supervisors' association as a guide to students who intend to seek employment in business offices includes the following pointers of value to all women, jobseekers or not:

Personal Grooming.

1. Hair: Clean, vital, neat, suitably coiffed for daytime wear. Of natural color.
2. Skin: Clean and clear.
3. Brows: Following the natural lines.
4. Teeth: Free from stain.
5. Nails: Well tended. Free from nicotine or other stain. Restrained tinting permissible if desired.
6. Makeup: Restrained. Suited to daytime wear and to one's natural coloring.

Posture.

1. Carriage: Body erect.
2. Walk: Toes in. Step light and springy.
3. Hands: Quiet. Avoidance of swinging in wide arc on walking.

Speech.

1. Voice [timbre]: Pleasant. Well modulated.
2. Diction [vocabulary]: Clearly enunciated. Restricted to accepted usage. Absence of slang or colloquialisms.

Health, Vigor.

2. Stamina: Giving capacity for sustained effort.
3. Emotional stability: Self-possession and control under ordinary circumstances and under pressure.

Character Attributes.

1. Trustworthiness: In one's entire relationship with fellow workers; willingness to follow through a piece of work to its satisfactory conclusion.
2. Discretion: In the handling of confidential information.
3. Punctiliousness: In the carrying out, without supervision, of company rules and regulations.

As a test would not the above serve to make any woman more attractive, as well as a greater business and professional success?

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

In the course of the midwest beauty trade show, which opens today at the Hotel Sherman, there will be an unusual educational feature for the benefit of the attending beauty shop owners and operators. A psychologist will explain the salutary effect of judicious grooming on the self-conscious child of school age who is plagued by a sense of inferiority.

It strikes us as an excellent idea. We believe that beauty authorities should be sufficiently informed on the psychological benefits of improved looks to sell parents the idea. The mother who perhaps suffered from acne or who wanted curls instead of braids when she was at the sensitive age is apt to forget what agonies of self-consciousness she suffered. She falls down on the necessary job of giving her adolescent child the build-up of admiration—but most important, she overlooks all the corrective measures that could remove the cause of the unhappiness and shyness.

We're strongly against making the little girl look like a woman. Flaming nail polish and movie star haircuts—most especially those that call for stiff waves—are in execrable taste on a youngster. But making a child look as pretty as possible, always in a fashion compatible with her years, falls under the heading of maternal duty. A certain amount of training will necessarily be given during the process. And that's all to the good, too. During a childhood in which a mother stresses good grooming and the mechanics of making the most of one's looks a youngster forms lifelong habits of fastidiousness.

The beauty shop operator, who is adviser and confidante of so many mothers, can be an excellent propagandist for this good cause.

Ballet Success Despite Illness of Two Stars

BY EDWARD BARRY.

With the sick list claiming Efrem Kurtz, conductor, and Mia Salvenska, prima ballerina, the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo nevertheless managed to bring to a successful close yesterday its week-end engagement. The Auditorium saw no fewer than eight separate items in the course of the Sunday afternoon and evening performances.

At the matinee the dancers presented the seldom seen "Carnaval," Massine's ecstatic "St. Francis," the "Blue Bird" dance [Markova and Guerard], and the Polovtsian business from "Prince Igor." In the evening came the old fashioned and still exquisite "Sylphides," the gorgeously colored Russian fables of "Bogatyri," the little "Spectre de la Rose" [Krassovska and Guerard], and Massine's intoxicating new "Gaité Parisienne."

Anatol Fistoulari, conductor for the entire engagement, has done his best to keep the music as gracious and earth free as most of the dancing has been.

It is time to cry aloud in print about the way that the setting for "Spectre de la Rose" seems to get brighter each time we see it. If a really bad performance of this fragrant ballet is ever given here there will be every justification for dragging out that barbed comment about the lighting being darker and the dancing lighter back in the legendary days of Nijinsky.

In the course of his Studebaker theater recital of yesterday afternoon Rudolph Ganz gave Beethoven's "Appassionata" sonata a performance which preserved intact all of the great dignity of the work, yet which became uncommonly eloquent in an almost personal sort of way. Mr. Ganz is a pianist who grasps intuitively the basic character of a piece of music and who knows to a hair's breadth how much of his own imagination an interpreter may introduce.

This accounts for his excellent musical style, an endowment which was revealed in an equally convincing, if totally different way in the Presto of the Haydn D major sonata. Under his hands the piece had that purling sort of naïveté which fits its character so splendidly.

The afternoon audience in the Civic Opera house heard a new John Pane-Gasser. Study and thought have given to this tenor the ability to color his singing aptly and to preserve the texture of a long pianissimo phrase. He was assisted by Itza Kiszely, a soprano whose beautifully luminous voice quality is occasionally marred by a too breathy production and by a tendency to over-accent. The Manalan String trio furnished instrumental interludes.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The Chicago Blackhawks, gypsies in the standings of the National Hocky league since they held the lead at the outset of the season, came closer and closer to the end of the trail in the Chicago Stadium last night. A crowd of 10,000 saw the Montreal Canadiens shove the Hawks deeper into last place by handing them a 2 to 1 overtime licking.

The Chicagoans and the Flying Frenchmen were joint tenants of sixth place prior to the contest. Hawk clients were deluded into thinking that their lads were going to take over the sixth position while dropping the Canadiens to seventh. This quaint notion was born after fifteen minutes of play in the third period, when big Joe Cooper, the Hawks' young defense player, holed out a midiron shot from the center circle. The puck struck about four feet in front of Claude Boroque, rookie goalie of the Frenchmen, who had been doing a noble job of doorkeeping until then, and then bounced past him into the net.

Trudell Spoils the Show.

Three minutes later Louie Trudell, a member of the Hawks last year, decided that he would give his former public a treat. Polly Drouin and Rod Lorraine collaborated to the extent of maneuvering the puck to a point where Louie could, and did, bat it past Mike Karakas. Shortly thereafter the siren whined and the match went into extra innings.

The first six minutes of the overtime period were typical of the whole game—earnest if not elegant hocky between two desperate teams trying to win a rôle in the Stanley cup finals. The Hawks maintained control for most of this span, but the Trudell-Drouin-Lorraine trio spoiled the evening by engineering another goal, Drouin slipping through to take a combination pass from his line colleagues and then score the winning goal.

Referee Is a Nice Man.

For 70 minutes the game was one of the roughest of the season, although Referee Mickey Ion was in a lenient mood and levied only four penalties, two of them majors and two minors. The heavier fines were meted out to Baldy Northcott of the Hawks and Johnny Gagnon of the Canadiens, who became entangled in a rassling match in the opening period.

Hector [Toe] Blake, the bright young man of the Canadiens who is leading the league's individual scoring standings, didn't add to his total, but convinced Chicagoans that he is quite a hocky player. Hector was all over the ice, and even earned that supreme salute, a unanimous booing, when he became irked at a couple of sound checks Cooper and Art Wiebe handed to him.

The Canadiens' victory gave them a full game advantage over the Hawks. They have a chance to improve on that margin tomorrow night, when they meet the New York Rangers, while the Hawks must wait until Thursday, when they battle the Rangers in the Stadium, before they can do anything to better their lowly estate.

WHITE SOX PICK OUTFIELDERS, BUT OMIT RADCLIFF

Kreevich, Steinbacher, Walker Get Call.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Pasadena, Cal., March 5.—If everything works out as planned by Manager James J. Dykes, the White Sox, come opening day April 18, will present an outfield which will be new to the customers only in the sense that the members thereof will be garbed in uniforms fresh from the tailors.

There may be some activity on the part of the jinx, patron saint of the hapless south siders, during the interval, but if all the fly chasing candidates still are able bodied on the above date the selected trio will be Gerald Walker, temporarily delayed by flu germs, Mike Kreevich, and Henry Steinbacher.

The manager revealed that much of his strategy today while sitting around and giving his aged legs their share of the twenty-four hour respite he ordered for the entire staf. It was the second off day out of eight since camp opened and probably the last of its kind this year.

Mike Hits Pretty Well.

There was nothing surprising about Dykes' admission that Walker and Kreevich were two-thirds of his outfield plans. Kreevich hits pretty well and as a center fielder can keep pace with all except one or two of the best. Walker, who as a Tiger became a Detroit favorite because of his amusing skill in doing the unexpected such as fantom catches of fly balls and being trapped between the bases, is supposed to be a hitter, so the manager is willing to overlook his occasional bits of misjudgment. Walker hit .305 for the Sox last season but insisted he was below the Walker standard.

The nomination of Steinbacher for right field might not appear logical if it wasn't for his 1938 batting figure. The partly bald Henry topped the Sox fielders with .333 and at various stages of the race was higher. The Sox took him from St. Paul two years ago because he had a swell average. He was returned there for 1937 and hit like a pitcher. But, despite this fadeout, he was recalled and bounced right up to the above mentioned average. He isn't exactly a finished article as a fielder, but is improving all the time.

Rip Isn't Worried.

The outfield setup leaves Rip Radcliff warming a spot of board on the bench, but this means nothing to Radcliff. He has been shoved aside on previous occasions, but eventually has gotten back into the lineup. Rip's curse is a weak throwing arm and an inclination toward unsteadiness on fly balls and grounders. But the little fellow is an uncanny hitter, probably as hard to fool as any batter in either major, so doesn't mind loafing until there is a demand for workmen of proved batting skill.

A year ago Dykes had Larry Rosenthal, a brilliant defensive man, in mind for one of the regular outfield posts. It is possible that Dykes now feels the St. Paul boy won't hit. If it isn't that, there may be one other reason for not counting him in the setup. The Tigers have been trying since last December to get Larry, but Dykes has spurned Chet Laabs in return. The Sox manager wants a pitcher included with Laabs. The Tigers may meet Dykes' demands if they don't succeed in getting Earl Averill from Cleveland.

Wants Ten Pitchers.

Dykes wants to keep ten pitchers, one more than was possible under the twenty-three player limit. Having room for ten and finding that many worthy candidates are two different matters. Eight of them are easily picked. They are Ted Lyons, Clint Brown, John Whitehead, John Rigney, Bill Dietrich, Thornton Lee, Jack Knott, and Vic Frasier, who was a Sox back in 1932 and took a long time returning.

LEIBER INSPIRES CUBS WITH HITS AGAINST FENCES

Hartnett Holds First '39 Clubhouse Meeting.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Avalon, Cal., March 5.—Manager Gabby Hartnett today held the first clubhouse meeting for his 1939 cast of Cubs and then led the mob of 32 athletes to the practice field for the first drill in which the entire ensemble engaged. There was plenty of sunshine and fairly high temperatures, so the workout was a spirited affair.

The biggest rubber shirt brigade in recent springs formed a conspicuous part of the drill. Not all of the rubber shirt wearers are fat men, but generally speaking the sweat producing raiment was donned for blubber shedding purposes. The special perspiration brigade consisted of Hippo English, erstwhile skinny guy; plump Hack, another erstwhile slim man; Bill Herman, a fatso last year, but much reduced this spring; Larry French, runner-up to Manager Hartnett as heaviest 1938 Cub; Hank Leiber, Joe Marty, Augie Galan, Bob Garbark, Bill Baker, Kirby Higbe, and Gene Lillard.

Leiber Busts 'Em.

As per his promise, Manager Hartnett put the newcomers through a rigorous batting practice their first day out. And the first round of batting practice resulted in an accident. Phil Cavarretta, whose slashing fouls are more famous than his base hits, slashed one of his specials outside the right foul line, conking Bob Landry, a photographer. Landry was knocked unconscious and had to be carried to the Cub sick bay. After Landry had been revived Dr. D. G. Bussey recommended he remain quiet for observation for at least 12 hours. Before the practice was over, however, the fellow was snapping pictures of the man who had laid him low and others on his assignment list.

The long range hitter of the first socking rounds was Hank Leiber, destined to bat as cleanup in the Cubs' regular batting order this season. Although he was seized with mal de mer in yesterday's boat trip, the former New York Giant pulled no punches today and sent the ball to the fences.

Bartell Full of Pepper.

Dick Bartell, another ex-Giant, worked out with special zeal and showed no signs of the rumored arthritis alleged to have been pestering him for some time. Dick says he is in tip top shape and looks it, in repose and in action.

Manager Hartnett will conduct similar practice tomorrow and Tuesday and on Wednesday will stage the first of six intra-club games to be played on Catalina Island.

There are to be no days off between now and travel date on April 6, unless the weather man steps in with some rain. There has been sunshine every one of the ten days the camp has been pitched and there have been no indications of bad weather. There has been some hope for hotter days, however.

Dizzy Dean was content to remain a shrinking violet in today's excitement. He did not ask to pitch in the opening batting practice and spent most of his time in a pepper session with Charley Root, Rip Collins, and Gus Mancuso.

Claude McGrath Named Gonzaga Athletic Head

Spokane, Wash., March 5.—(AP)—Claude F. McGrath, former Gonzaga university football star and freshman coach there under Clipper Smith, today was named director of athletics at Gonzaga and was given complete direction of the school's athletic program. Father Leo J. Robinson, president of Gonzaga, said no football coach had been chosen yet to replace Mike Pecarovich, who resigned to become head coach at Loyola university in Los Angeles.

Golden Gloves Finalists Open Drill Today for Friday's Bouts

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Thirty-two Golden Gloves boxers will get back to strenuous work today in preparation for Friday night's semi-finals and finals in the Stadium. The fighters have been easing up a bit following their victories in the Tournament of Champions, but now, with the goal in sight, it's time to put on the pressure again.

The boys will be particularly anxious to give a good account of themselves Friday because they will be fighting before a capacity crowd of 21,000. Every reserved seat already has been sold. At 8 o'clock on the evening of the bouts, 4,000 general admission tickets will be placed on sale at gates 1, 3 and 6 at the Stadium.

Gary Team Strong.

Those who were unable to obtain reserved seats for the finals may still see these fighters in action when Chicago's Golden Gloves team meets New York in the Stadium on March 29.

With seven representatives left in the semi-finals, Chicago has a chance to place quite a few boxers on the intercity team. Detroit, Cleveland, and Gary also have powerful representation in the tournament with three survivors each. The field for Friday night's bouts includes boys from thirteen of the forty-six out of town centers where newspapers coöperated with Chicago Tribune Charities, Inc., in the sponsorship of Golden Gloves eliminations.

In Chicago's Savoy A. C. and in the C. Y. O. gymnasium, the seven local fighters will be working out today realizing that they must break down formidable opposition before they can attain championships. Al Noto, Joe Dupont, Homer Williams, Frank Bausone, Willie Moon, Johnny Pleasant, and Curtis McDaniels will carry Chicago's chances in Friday night's bouts.

They Are Tops.

The boys they will face are drawn from the best amateur boxing talent of the twenty-six states which contributed to the Tournament of Champions.

Every bout next Friday is expected to be spectacular because with championships at stake the contestants put everything they have into every punch, assuring boxing fans of a typically fast moving Golden Gloves final.

MAY TAKE POST AT MISSISSIPPI STATE COLLEGE

Asks for Immediate Release.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 5.—(AP)—Dr. John B. [Jock] Sutherland, head football coach for the last fifteen years, has submitted his resignation to the University of Pittsburgh.

The resignation, in the form of a letter to Chancellor John Gabbert Bowman, was delivered Saturday morning. Official announcement was not to have been made until Wednesday.

In the letter the university is asked to waive the agreement which called for Sutherland's continuance as coach for two years after giving notice of resignation.

Bowman Refuses Comment.

Sutherland admitted tonight he had asked the university to make the resignation "effective at once."

"I do not care to say anything more until I have seen Chancellor Bowman tomorrow," he said.

Chancellor Bowman refused to comment, promising a statement later. Bowman has been ill the last few days, but was aware of the letter. The resignation must be accepted by the school athletic authorities before Sutherland's position as head coach is officially vacated.

The latest report has Sutherland going to Mississippi State college. He is reported to have been negotiating with Mississippi State officials during the last two weeks.

Since his ruckus early in 1937 with W. Don Harrison, director of athletics, Sutherland has been said to be on his way out at Pitt. At that time Harrison is alleged to have told him, "I made you and I'll break you." A disagreement over the amount of spending money given victorious Pitt players after the Rose Bowl game on Jan. 1, 1937, brought the feud into the open.

Sutherland Outlasts Harrison.

With the promotion of James Hagan to athletic director came a series of reforms designed to purify athletics. The Hagan plan was indorsed by Chancellor Bowman and adopted by the athletic council in 1937.

The exact reason for Sutherland's resignation was not disclosed, but there appeared little doubt that bickering with freshmen football players over work and pay, depletion of the squad by ineligibility, and continued arguments over policy prompted him to quit.

Four of his Pitt teams played in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal. He took the Panthers to the west coast in 1927, 1929, 1932, and 1937. He won once, defeating Washington, 21 to 0, on Jan. 1, 1937. Previous results in order were Stanford, 7; Pitt, 6; Southern California, 47; Pitt, 14, and Southern California, 35; Pitt, 0.

Wins Eight Titles.

His teams won the eastern championship eight times, once at Lafayette, where he formerly coached, and seven times at Pitt. His all-time record at Lafayette was 33 victories, 8 defeats and two ties, and 111 victories, 20 defeats, and 12 ties at Pitt.

In his twenty years as a coach Sutherland's elevens scored 144 victories, lost 28 games, and played 14 ties.

Only seven undefeated and untied teams have been turned out at Pitt and of those Sutherland played on the 1915, 1916, and 1917 squads and coached the one in 1929. He turned in a perfect season of nine victories and no defeats at Lafayette in 1921.

Sutherland succeeded Glenn [Pop] Warner at Pitt in 1924 and had his poorest season that year with five triumphs, three defeats, and one tie.

OIMEN CAPTURES WHITEHALL SKI CHAMPIONSHIP

Whitehall, Wis., March 5.—(AP)—Gunnar Oimen of the Norge Ski club, Chicago, won the class A championship in the seventh annual Whitehall ski tournament today, with leaps of 153 and 151 feet in a blinding snowfall. He scored 136 points. George Gunderson, Chicago, was second with 130.7 points.

Charles Bruckelmeyer of the Norwegian American A. C., Minneapolis, won class B with 158—152—134.1 and Lawrence Kaja of New London, Wis., won class C. Harold Schmelzer of Madison took senior honors. Ole Bessberg of Chicago was second in the senior class with 112—115—114.4.

13 Year Old Boy Killed When Hit by Pitched Ball

Greenville, O., March 5.—(AP)—Robert Siberry, 13 years old, was killed today when he was hit on the head by a baseball while batting in a sandlot game. Companions said he apparently was blinded by the sun.

BROKEN ANKLE TO KEEP CHANDLER ON YANKEE BENCH

Pitcher Unable to Play Before Midseason.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—The Yankees received bad news today in the form of a report by Dr. R. E. Walsh that Pitcher Bud Chandler would be lost to the club until midseason because of a broken ankle.

The club physician visited Chandler in Atlanta, Ga., on his way to camp, viewed X-ray plates, and consulted with the surgeon who had attended the Yankee hurler. Dr. Walsh said it had been necessary to place a metal bracelet around the break.

Chandler fractured his ankle while getting a little pre-season conditioning in the University of Georgia stadium.

Manager Joe McCarthy, who had hoped to have the big right hander back late in May or June, said, glumly, it might have been worse.

"I would rather have him out the first half than the last half of the season. With all the rain and postponed games early in the year we can get along with Ruffing, Gomez, and Hildebrand. But we'll need him later when the double-headers pile up," he said.

OJEDA JOINS SENATORS.

Orlando, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—The Washington Senators added another foreigner to their rookie pitching corps today—Alejandro Ojeda, a 20 year old Cuban left hander.

Joe Cambria, the scout who has brought five Cubans and one South American to the Senators, said he believed Ojeda was ready for the major leagues.

LIGHT DRILL FOR REDS.

Tampa, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Manager Bill McKechnie lightened up workout program today and the Cincinnati Reds went through one light practice.

McKechnie said he would not bear down as hard in practice games as he did last year.

"Last season I was trying to build up the morale of a club that finished last the previous year," he said, "but I don't have to worry about morale this season, so I'm going to do a lot of experimenting."

PIRATE PITCHERS ILL.

San Bernadino, Cal., March 5.—(AP)—Three Pirate pitchers were ailing today at their spring training camp. Truett Sewell had a sore throat, Mace Brown was lame after the muscles in his legs stiffened from running down flies, and Russell Bauers had blistered feet.

WHITEHEAD STILL ABSENT.

Baton Rouge, La., March 5.—(AP)—The Giants set up camp today with all players except Burgess Whitehead on hand.

Manager Bill Terry led a group of batterymen in from Hot Springs, Ark., at about the time another contingent of infielders and outfielders arrived from the east.

TROUT SETTLES DOWN.

Lakeland, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—One of the surprises of this year's Detroit training camp is that Paul [Dizzy] Trout isn't dizzy any more. The young Terre Haute, Ind., pitcher came into camp two years ago, amused every one with his antics, and then wound up in Toledo. He explains that he settled down, deciding it was more important to pitch well than to be funny, and the 1939 Trout is a serious young man who won't even strike goofy poses for the photographer. With Beaumont last year Trout won twenty-two games and lost six.

MARTIN REPLACES MEDWICK.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Pepper Martin will take over Joe Medwick's position in left field for the St. Louis Cardinals' first exhibition game with the Yankees next Saturday if Joe still is a holdout. Medwick has refused to accept a $5,000 cut in salary.

Martin, bubbling with new enthusiasm since Manager Ray Blades named him team captain, is the oldest man on the squad.

BELL, MEZZARA STAR.

San Antonio, Tex., March 5.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns this afternoon wound up five days of preliminary spring practice with a strenuous three hour drill under a hot sun.

PITCHER HITS HOME RUN.

New Braunfels, Tex., March 5.—(AP)—The Butchers and the Hollingsworths had it out today at the Phillies' training camp over Manager Doc Protho's pitching. Max Butcher's team hit Protho 14 times for a 10 to 4 victory over Al Hollingsworth's faction. Hollingsworth was the only home run hitter.

HOLD FUNERAL TOMORROW FOR MICHAEL SCHULTZ

Funeral services for Michael Schultz, one of the earliest baseball umpires in Chicago, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. in St. Wenceslaus church with burial in St. Adalbert's cemetery. Mr. Schultz died Friday in his home at 3264 Drake avenue at the age of 69. He was a member of the Umpires Protective association of Chicago for thirty-seven years.

During that time he officiated at semi-professional games. After retiring two years ago he continued to work as an umpire in softball leagues. Surviving are his widow, Pauline; a son, Leonard, a city fireman, and two daughters, Rose and Loretta.

Peggy O'Neil Helps White Shirts Lead in Roller Derby

Peggy O'Neil gained a lap on the entire field to give her team, the Chicago White Shirts, 5 points last night in the roller Derby in the Coliseum. The White Shirts led New York, 41 to 36, at the conclusion of last night's skating.

METZ-LAFFOON BEATEN IN FOUR BALL GOLF MEET

Coral Gables, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Last year's winners, Dick Metz and Ky Laffoon, and the sentimental favorites, Walter Hagen and Gene Sarazen, were eliminated from the $5,000 international four ball golf tournament today as 32 of the nation's best professionals opened play in the annual event.

Johnny Farrell and Willie Klein, who hardly were mentioned in the pretournament figuring, did a workmanlike 3 and 2 job on Metz and Laffoon while Craig Wood and Bill Burke defeated Hagen and Sarazen, 2 and 1.

Other Favorites Advance.

The other favorites moved into the second round, although Lawson Little and Tony Manero had to go an extra hole to beat Harry Cooper and Jimmy Thomson.

Johnny Revolta and Henry Picard, three time winners, set an 11 under par pace as they whipped Tommy Armour and Tony Penna, 5 and 4. Sam Snead and Ralph Guldahl routed Frank Moore and Willie Goggin, 6 and 5; Denny Shute and Ben Hogan beat Willie MacFarlane and Johnny Bulla, 3 and 2; Horton Smith and Paul Runyan ousted Jimmy Hines and Vic Ghezzi, 5 and 4, and E. J. [Dutch] Harrison and Ray Mangrum eliminated Byron Nelson and Frank Walsh, 4 and 2.

Hagen Shoots 69.

Hagen, trying a tournament comeback after a five month layoff, in no way disgraced himself. He showed up ten minutes before starting time, shooed away an alternate waiting to substitute, took three practice swings and proceeded to shoot a 2 under par 69.

Tomorrow's pairings:

Farrell-Klein vs. Manero-Little.
Wood-Burke vs. Snead-Guldahl.
Shute-Hogan vs. Smith-Runyan.
Harrison-Mangrum vs. Picard-Revolta.

Manhattans Rout Vikings; Spartas Win

BY OFFSIDE.

The Manhattan Brewers and Sparta A. B. C., national champion, tuned up for national western cup semi-final games next Sunday with easy victories yesterday.

The Brewers ran up an 11 to 0 triumph on the previously unbeaten Vikings of the International league, while Sparta won from the newly formed Model Star team of Dalzell, Ill., 6 to 1.

The Manhattans, playing without the Canadian newcomers who appeared in their lineup last week, presented a well-rounded attack led by Salcedo, who made four goals. The others were split up among Lillie, Robb and Art Garcia, each of whom had two, and Williamson. The Brewers led, 6 to 0, at the half.

The Models held Sparta scoreless for the first 25 minutes, but once Wolf drove past Fonderoli goals came rapidly. Wolf scored three times, twice in the first period to assist Sparta to a 4 to 1 lead at the half. Guerrini scored the Models' goal.

Ronald Giese Wins Tribune Casting Event

Ronald Giese Jr. yesterday afternoon won the final event of THE TRIBUNE'S annual bait casting tournament held in conjunction with the National Boat and Sports show on Navy pier.

Giese made a score of 20 in the obstacle event, the new type of casting game which was introduced at the Tribune tournament held in the International amphitheater in January. Instead of casting at rings, as in regular events, casters in yesterday's contest had to place their plugs between logs, under brush, and in similar camouflaged points in the casting pool. The best possible score was 50 instead of 100 as in regular casting.

Huguelet Places Second.

Glenn Huguelet, one of three brothers who have competed in the tournament, was second with a score of 15. S. T. Shoemaker, who was second in the fishermen's event Thursday night, was third yesterday afternoon with a 14. Among the other thirty casters the scores ranged from 13 to 0.

All of the casters who competed in the obstacle event were enthusiastic about its possibilities, even though it still is in the experimental stage. They believe that it provides an excellent method of practicing accuracy casting for summer fishing trips.

Attendance Record Broken.

The boat and sports show closed last night. Hubbard Erickson, manager, said yesterday that a new attendance record for the show had been set, and that the sales of boats exceeded other years.

LUDLOW FIVE WINS PRINTERS' BOWLING MEET

The Ludlow Typograph team, captained by Charles Meinhard, won the five man championship in the Union Printers' 23d annual bowling tournament on Bensinger's Randolph alleys yesterday, scoring a total of 2,829 against 2,797 for the Baseball Boosters' five, led by George Wolf.

The Slurs defeated the Bundschos, Inc., Day five in the booster division with 2,646. G. Cassier and E. Pierce led the two man squads with 1,162, eleven more pins then E. Baebl and H. DeLorme. W. Hughes was high in the individual event with a 646 series, defeating John Smith when Smith missed a spare after eight consecutive strikes. Smith had 635.

V. Dizer captured the all-events title with a total of 1,810. H. Shurpiet and E. Smith tied for high game in the tournament, each rolling a 257 game in the singles.

Drysdale Breaks Record in 100 Yard Back Stroke

Coral Gables, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Taylor Drysdale of Detroit clipped 1.2 seconds off the world 100 yard backstroke record over a 50 meter course today when he swam the distance in 1 minute 1.8 seconds in the Miami Biltmore pool. The former record of 1:03 was set by Al Van de Weghe of Princeton university in the same pool in 1935 and tied by Adolf Kiefer of Chicago in 1937 in San Francisco.

Owners, Fanciers to Exhibit Dogs in Kennel Show

BY BOB BECKER.

Dog fanciers in the middlewest are preparing for the International Kennel club's annual spring dog show which will be held in the International amphitheater, April 1 and 2.

This all breed show is the outstanding event of the spring season for the thousands of dog owners who enjoy the hobby of owning, breeding, and showing their pets. The entry blanks for the show have just been issued. The first closing date for the show is March 18. No entry may be accepted by show officials after 6 p. m. Saturday night, March 25.

Owners who never have shown their dogs in any bench show and are considering the idea of entering this year's show still have time to prepare their pets for this event. Under the tutelage of a professional handler any one can get a novice dog ready for its first show in about a month, providing that the animal is in good coat, or will be in good coat by April 1. This question of coat is of most importance to the terrier owners. Terriers will, to use a show exhibitor phrase, "go out of coat" before a show or else not be "in good coat" for this or that show. Any dog owner who wants advice on how to get a dog ready for the show may call C. E. Harbison, general manager of the International Kennel club, Yards 5580. Mr. Harbison not only will be available to counsel with owners, but he also announced yesterday that the club will hold classes for those who wish to learn something of the technique and routine of exhibiting at dog shows. These classes will be held in the International amphitheater on Thursday afternoons between 2 and 4 until the end of March.

An innovation in the program of this year's bench show will be the brace and team classes. Eastern shows put considerable emphasis on the showing of matched pairs of dogs and it's one of the most interesting features of any show for the spectator.

Officers of the Kennel club believe that there is much advance interest in the local classes for dogs owned within a radius of forty miles of Chicago's loop. This competition is open to residents of Chicago and suburbs. These local classes are a lot of fun for beginners in the show game who want the experience of showing in a bench show and competing for a ribbon and cash.

B'NAI B'RITH OPENS ANNUAL BASKET TOURNEY

Mungo Holds Conference with McPhail, Durocher

Clearwater, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—Larry MacPhail, executive vice president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, his manager, Leo Durocher, and Van Lingle Mungo, holdout pitcher, held a conference today, an indication that Mungo's salary dispute will be settled soon.

Lander Boxes Henry Huerta at Marigold

Eddie Lander, west side fighter, who is undefeated in his last nine starts, will make another bid for national recognition in an eight round bout with Henry Huerta of Washington, D. C., in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, tonight.

At 23 years of age Huerta is a veteran campaigner. Since 1935 he has engaged in forty-two matches. He won twenty, fought seven draws, four no decision bouts, and lost eleven times. Probably the fiery little Mexican's best achievement is a victory over Dave Barry in 1936. Other notable accomplishments include draws with Armand Sicilia and Joey Silva the following year, and Merle Thompson last year.

Tommy Pallatin, former National A. A. U. lightweight champion, will meet Lorenzo Lovings in a six round semi-final. Lovings was substituted for Tony Motisi, Catholic Youth organization welterweight, who suffered an ear injury in his triumph over Jess Ackerman in St. Paul last week. Preliminary bouts:

Willie Kline vs. Jimmy Richards [4], 135.
Cliff Dunnett vs. Eddie Garlow [4], 155.
Danny Shaw vs. Herman Hayes [4], 175.

Jack Claybourn, colored heavyweight wrestler from Portland, Ore., will meet an opponent yet to be named in a one hour bout heading the card this evening in White City, 63d street and South Park avenue.

Emil Kolo, Englewood amateur boxer, will meet Don Pats in Coulon's gymnasium, 1154 East 63d street, tonight. Vernel Williams, Golden Gloves welterweight semi-finalist, will appear as a guest of Johnny Coulon, the old bantamweight title holder. Williams is one of Coulon's pupils.

Joe Louis will leave for California at 12:01 p. m. today over the Santa Fe. He will go direct to Victorville, colored dude ranch 110 miles outside Los Angeles, to start preparations for his heavyweight championship defense against Jack Roper April 18.

Efforts are being made to arrange a meeting between Fred Apostoli, San Francisco middleweight, and Marty Simmons of Saginaw, Mich., in Milwaukee March 28. . . . Approximately $3,400, profits of the great boxing show held in the Coliseum last Thursday, has been divided among four sponsors—Irving Schoenwald, James C. Mullen, Jack Begun, and Jack Hurley. Division of the spoils revealed that Mullen and Schoenwald have been unable to reach an agreement on certain matters, and if a proposed show is presented in the Coliseum in April they will not be joint promoters. SET 3 RECORDS IN Y. M. C. A. WEIGHT LIFTING TOURNEY

Three records were broken in the Illinois state Y. M. C. A. weight lifting meet in Englewood yesterday, in which Englewood won the team title with 19 points.

In the 165 pound division, Tony Petroline of Englewood added ten pounds to the old record with a lift of 700 pounds. The old mark was held by Ed Vodak, also of Englewood.

Art Schmudde, Englewood, lifted 610 pounds in the 148 pound division to break the record made by Dick Payne of Decatur. Jim Thompson, Aurora, competing in the heavyweight division, added ten pounds to his old mark by lifting 660.

Other individual winners were Tom O'Rourke, Englewood, 485 pounds in the 132 pound division, and Frank Kay, Duncan, 685 pounds in the 181 pound division. Table of points:

Englewood	19	Hyde Park	3
Aurora	15	Danville	1
Decatur	11	Waukegan	1
Duncan	6	Springfield	1
Joliet	3	Naperville	1

Big Ten Track Stars Threaten 3 World Records

Three world records may be tied or broken in the Big Ten indoor track meet at the University of Chicago Friday and Saturday.

Bill Watson, Michigan shot put star; Milton Padway, Wisconsin pole vaulter; and Ohio State's relay team may be able to turn the trick in the Midway field house.

Padway is exactly two and three-eights inches under a world record with his best height cleared this season, 14 feet 2⅛ inches. The world indoor mark, made by George Varoff of Oregon in 1937, is 14 feet 4⅞ inches.

Only a little more than a foot separates Watson from the indoor record of 52 feet 8¾ inches set by Leo Sexton of the N. Y. A. C. in 1932. In dual meets this season the Michigan weight man, who has held the conference record for two years, has made 51 feet 5½ inches.

Pennsylvania's mile relay record may be placed in jeopardy this year by the Ohio State champions, now including Bob Lewis, Durwood Cooperider, Jack Sulzman, and Harley Howells, who have run the baton event in 3:18.2. The world record, set by Pennsylvania in 1933, is 3:17.

Michigan leads the Big Ten in the number of indoor track championships won since 1911, with nine titles, five of which have been won in the last five years. The Wolvertines will be out for their sixth in a row.

Illinois is second with eight. The rest of the field consists of Wisconsin and Chicago, with three each, and Indiana and Iowa, with two each. Ohio State, Northwestern, Minnesota, and Purdue never have won a track title.

Illinois leads the institutions which have taken one of the first three places. The Illini have been first, second, or third 19 times. Under this rating Wisconsin is second with 17½; Michigan is third with 15½; and Chicago is fourth with 10.

THREE CLASSIC LEAGUE TEAMS BOWL 3,300 GAMES

Three Classic league teams bowled over 3,300 last night at the Laurel Recreation. The Power House led the attack with 3,376, the Pabst Blue Ribbons bowled 3,337, and the Schlitz bowlers totaled 3,308 The Pabsts' 1,176 was high game. Jack Bishop of the Schlitz totaled 741. Scores:

De Paul Will Honor Neu at Final Tonight

De Paul university's greatest basketball star, Capt. Bob Neu, will be honored tonight when the Demons close the season against Hamline university of St. Paul on the De Paul court.

The high scoring forward, who has made 565 points in the last two seasons for a new record, will seek to add to his new season record of 315 points. He has led the Demon scorers in practically every game this year.

Only Senior in Lineup.

He will be the only senior in the starting group. Others are Chet Tollstam, Ed Norris, Stan Szukala, and Ted Skrodzki. The other four regulars are juniors.

Neu started his brilliant career at St. Mel High school, where he gained national recognition when selected on star teams at both the Loyola and St. George tournaments. He played as a substitute on the outstanding De Paul team of 1936 and came into his own last year, when he set a new De Paul individual scoring record of 250 points.

He Stars in the East.

He was rated by eastern basketball experts as the outstanding player to appear in Philadelphia, where he set a new scoring mark of twenty-four points, and in Madison Square Garden. He was the leader of the De Paul forces which snapped the nine game winning streak of St. John's of Brooklyn in the Garden.

MACQUINN WINS ANOTHER MIDGET AUTO CONTEST

Harry MacQuinn of Indianapolis won his third consecutive forty lap main event last night in the midget automobile races in the 124th Field Artillery armory. He led from start to finish. HORNETS DEFEAT SHAMROCKS, 4-2, TO FINISH SECOND

The Hornets defeated the C. Y. O. Shamrocks, 4 to 2, yesterday to finish second in the Arena Amateur Hocky league. The Shamrocks, who already had clinched the league title, completed their season with a record of eight victories and four losses.

The Pepsi-Colas lost to the Planerts, 4 to 1, but wound up in third place. The Planerts were last.

Ohio State Takes Title as Indiana Loses Two.

Now they are in second place and Ohio State's high scoring five is the season's Big Ten champion, successor to Purdue's 1937-'38 winner.

Purdue jolted Indiana out of first place last Monday with a 45 to 34 setback and Michigan completed the downfall of the Hoosiers Saturday night, 53 to 45. Indiana had the lead until the last five minutes when the Wolverines took charge and built up an eight point margin by the time the game ended.

Ohio Defeats Michigan.

Ohio State apparently was patiently waiting for the Hoosiers' fall. The Buckeyes pulled up even last Monday by whipping this same Michigan team, 42 to 28, and then Saturday night breezed through Purdue, 51 to 35. Thus the Buckeyes decisively defeated in the same week the two teams that beat Indiana.

Ohio State's leading scorer again was Capt. Jimmy Hull, the 21 year old forward who made 20 points against Purdue for a season's total of 169 points in twelve games. This aggregate gave him the individual scoring title, surpassing Lewis [Pick] Dehner, Illinois center in second place, by 18 points.

Illinois, already certain of third place, closed its conference slate last Monday, and Indiana, Ohio State, and Wisconsin ended the season Saturday night. The Badgers wound up by losing a 39 to 33 decision to the Maroons.

Others Finish Tonight.

The other six teams conclude league warfare tonight but none of the games has a bearing on the one-two-three positions in the standings. In tonight's battles Northwestern goes to Michigan, Purdue is host to Chicago, and Minnesota invades Iowa.

HOLY CROSS, HOPE WIN WALTHER LEAGUE GAMES

The Walther Church Basketball league completed its preliminary round in all divisions yesterday and the first two teams qualify for the championship tournament, which will be held at Concordia college, March 16 to 19 and 23 to 26.

Yesterday Holy Cross upset the St. Andrews team, 34 to 19, in the southwest zone. It was the first defeat for St. Andrews, and as Hope defeated St. Martini, 35 to 21, the two tied for first place, each having won eight and losing one. The results:

St. Peters, 38; St. Martini, 18. Holy Cross, 34; St. Andrews, 19. Redeemer, 43; St. Stephens, 25. St. Phillips, 28; Nazareth, 27. Hope, 35; St. Martini, 21. St. Lukes, 29; First Bethlehem, 20.

BRUINS BEAT RANGERS

Boston, Mass., March 5.—(AP)—After coming from behind three times, the Boston Bruins scored two overtime goals to defeat the New York Rangers, 5 to 3, tonight before an overflow crowd of 16,000 in the Boston Garden.

The triumph, the fourth the Bruins have gained over the Rangers in seven games, left them within a single point of clinching the National Hocky league championship.

The Bruins' kids trio, Bobby Bauer, Woody Dumart, and Milt Schmidt, cooperated to score a tying goal in the last minute of regular play.

Then Schmidt, with Bauer's aid, made the winning goal at the third minute of extra play. Roy Conacher, freshman wing, made it doubly certain by following with his nineteenth goal of the season. Lineups:

BOSTON [5].		NEW YORK [3].

Upsets Mark Second Round of C.Y.O. Meet

Close games and upsets marked the second round of play in the ninth annual C. Y. O. basketball championship playoffs in eight Chicago gymnasiums yesterday as thirty-two quintets battled for the right to advance in the tournament.

Mercy Mission, one of the most powerful heavyweight fives in the league, lost to St. Anthony of Cicero in Cicero stadium, 36 to 30. St. Anthony, winner of the title in 1936 and runner-up in 1937, has not been beaten this season and is the outstanding threat to the reign of St. Elizabeth's colored squad among the heavies.

St. Bernard's Is Surprised.

St. Bernard's heavies, defeated only once and apparently a strong threat in the tournament, lost to Holy Cross of 45th street, 37 to 22.

Among the other strong heavyweight teams which advanced were Holy Rosary [Italian], which beat St. Stephen, 35 to 25; St. Cornelius, which defeated St. Bartholomew, 41 to 30, and St. Mel, which swamped Immaculate Conception of Elmhurst, 55 to 35.

Play Again Tomorrow.

The next round of the tournament will be played tomorrow and on Thursday the quarter finals will be held. Semi-final games will be played next Sunday, and the finals in the 32d armory, Madison and Rockwell streets, March 19. Scores follow:

HEAVYWEIGHTS—St. Anselm 35; St. Michael 20; St. Anthony [Cicero 36, Mercy Mission 30; St. Cornelius 41, St. Bartholomew 30; Holy Rosary [Italian] 35, St. Stephen 25; St. Edward 36, St. Nicholas 32; Queen of Angeles 40, St. James [Highwood] 2; St. Mary of Celle 47, Ss. Peters and Paul [Naperville] 23; St. Mel 55, Immaculate Conception [Elmhurst] 35; Holy Cross 37, St. Bernard 22.

LIGHTWEIGHTS—St. Anselm 32, St. Willibrord 28; St. Gabriel 23, St. Bernard 22; Mary Queen of Heaven 14, St. Adalbert 13; Blessed Sacrament 22, St. Barbara 19; St. Hedwig 39, St. Hedwig Orphanage 30; St. Sylvester 47, St. Cornelius 17; St. Ita 30, St. Nicholas 22; Queen of Angeles 49, St. Matthias 41; St. Joseph [Downers Grove] 38, St. Mel 24; Our Lady Help of Christians 35, St. Francis Xavier [La Grange] 29.

Y. M. C. A. SWIM TEAMS TO OPEN MEETS TONIGHT

Swimming teams from seventeen departments of the Chicago Y. M. C. A. will compete for the city championship this week.

Preliminary meets will be held tonight in the South Chicago, Duncan, and Irving Park departments. Tomorrow night preliminaries for the prep and junior age divisions will be held in the south district in the Englewood Y, in the west district in Sears-Roebuck, and in the north division in the Lincoln-Belmont department.

NEWS OF FINANCE AND COMMERCE

STEEL BUYING IS EXPECTED TO GAIN THIS MONTH

Several Industries to Expand Orders.

The steel trade this month will gain from heavier orders for rail and from improvement in automobile, tin plate, building, and farm equipment industries, the magazine Steel predicted yesterday.

"Steel requirements of railroads, while still relatively moderate," Steel asserted, "are becoming an increasingly important factor in total business. Furthermore, recent improvement in earnings of the carriers brightens the outlook for further expansion in orders for equipment and track material."

Pig Iron Output Rises.

Steel said buying of finished steel has not improved from the slightly reduced level in February. Nevertheless the industry's ingot operating rate gained 1 point last week to 56 per cent of capacity. This activity set a high mark for this year and compared with 29.5 per cent a year ago.

The daily average output of 73,543 tons of pig iron last month was the largest, with the exception of last November, since October, 1937. Total production for the month was 2,059,203 tons, which was the best for February since 1930 except in 1937.

Operations Show Improvement.

Improvement in operations was noted in the large steel centers. Chicago's ingot rate rose 3 points to 56.5 per cent, compared with the 1938 peak of 60 per cent. Pittsburgh production advanced 2 points to 50 per cent, equaling the top reached last fall. Wheeling operations climbed 3 points to 71 per cent. Other district rates were unchanged or lower.

The strength in the scrap markets is considered as a good omen. Steel's composite price was steady at $14.96 a ton and the finished steel composite at $56.50.

PWA COLLECTS 485 MILLION ON CITY SECURITIES

Washington, D. C., March 5.—(AP)—The Public Works administration today reported collection of more than $485,000,000 from the sale, repayment, and redemption of securities issued by municipalities to pay the local share of PWA construction costs.

The PWA purchased the securities at a time when private investors were unwilling to do so and later sold them through the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Of the money collected, approximately $12,000,000 was profit—the cash premium which private investors paid to purchase the bonds from PWA over the amount PWA paid for the securities. About $18,000,000 of interest collected by PWA on loans has been returned to the treasury.

Germany Reported Given Oil Rights by Slovaks

PRAGUE, Czecho-Slovakia, March 5.—(AP)—A Slovak committee was reported today to have agreed during recent negotiations in Berlin to grant Germany exclusive rights to exploit any oil discovered in the autonomous Czecho-Slovak province. These reports came from Bratislava, Slovak capital. At present oil wells are being worked in the neighborhood of the Slovak village of Kbely by a French-financed concern.

Closed Bank at Downs to Repay $4,082 More

Bloomington, Ill., March 5.—[Special.]—Distribution of a 10 per cent repayment totaling $4,082 by the closed Farmers State bank of Downs, Ill., will commence tomorrow, Carter Pietsch of Bloomington, deputy receiver, announced here today. The payment, the sixth, will bring the total returned to depositors to 60 per cent.

SELF-INVESTMENT?

Investors' Guide: I have noticed the recent report of lower earnings for the Tubize Chatillon corporation. I am somewhat concerned about the smaller profit for 1938 because I have been thinking seriously of investing my professional career as an analytical chemist with the company. Please give me your opinion of the earnings stability of the company and a review of its operations in recent years. I think many companies in this field have a bright future.—B. H.

Answer: A member of the expanding rayon industry, Tubize Chattillon has had an irregular and erratic growth. After losing more than $4,000,000 in its first three years, 1930-'32, inclusive, the company put operations on a profitable basis and by 1936 had net income for the year of $1,047,000. This profit was more than absorbed, however, by the year's dividend requirements on prior stocks, so that nothing was earned on the common.

Net income in 1937 climbed to $1,440,000, or $1.04
